Translations From Goethe Album Reveal Tender Sentiments Held By Great German Classical Writer For A Long-Time Friend

Friendship conveyed by a glance, or the reflection of true friendship as seen through the windows of the soul, the eyes, meant much more to Goethe, German poet, 1749-1832, than any spoken word, he wrote to his long-time friend, Countess Caroline Egloffstein, lady in waiting to the Grand Duchess of Saxe-Weimar, Germany, in 1817, 15 years before his death.

This letter to the countess comprises one of the valuable pages of a leather-covered album presented to Gettysburg College in 1934, deposited in the vault of the Gettysburg National Bank, and now being translated by Dr. William K. Sundermeyer, professor of German at the college. It will later be available to serious students at the college library, according to Dr. Walter C. Langsam, president.

Cherished By College

Goethe is one of the world's immortals in the field of poetry, drama and prose, and the album is considered one of the most valuable pieces of literature which the library of the college possesses. It was lost to the so-called scholarly world in 1891, when it was discovered in Germany by J. H. W. Stuckenberg, upon whom an honorary degree was conferred by the college in 1899. Dr. Stuckenberg purchased the volume, and it remained in his possession until his death. His widow, Mary Stuckenberg, resided at 49 Chambersburg St., and after she, too, had passed away, the album was given to the college by a relative, Gertrude Glingrich.

In a literal sense of the word, the album was never "lost," since it was known to be in Dr. Stuckenberg's possession, and, after 1934, in the bank's vault, with other valuable papers of the college. Former President, Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, knew of the existence of this volume, and it was listed by the bank, but it lay in obscurity in the bank vault until the new administration, headed by Dr. Langsam, brought it to light again.

Announcement of the "re-discovery" of the "lost" volume was made by The Gettysburg Times on Monday, February 16. It was transferred to a safe in the college library on Thursday.

In Library Safe

The album measures 6 1/2 inches by 8 1/2 inches. It contains 55 pages, several of which are blank. It has embossed leather covers in a dark red and what was probably once white, but is now yellow. The front cover contains a picture of the so-called temple in the park of the Grand Duke Charles Augustus of Saxe-Weimar, where Johann Wolfgang von Goethe often visited. On the rear cover is a reproduction of the hunting lodge in the same park. The book contains three poems by Goethe, one of them never before published. It was written at Christmastime, 1827, five years before Goethe's death, and is entitled "Olive Branch With Fruits." Dr. (Please Turn to Page 5)

COLLEGE GRAD IS HELD UP BY BANK BANDIT

Andrew K. Mearns, 28, manager of the Fairfax branch of the Delaware Trust Company, three miles north of Wilmington, Del., was "robbed of $3,000 in cash as gun-point Friday by a bandit who entered the branch and calmly executed the holdup single-handed. Mearns is a graduate of Gettysburg College in the class of 1948 and is well known in Gettysburg.

A tall, slim, black-haired bandit who was described as methodical but "disreputable looking," forced Mearns and another branch employee to lie on the floor while he scooped up the cash and fled, telling them he had two accomplices waiting on the outside.

Mearns told police the thug entered the small office at one end of the Fairfax shopping center about 10:45 a.m. to change some large bills.

Returns Short Time Later

He returned about 15 minutes later as a telephone was ringing in a rear office. Mearns turned to answer it and felt the muzzle of a blue steel revolver jammed in his side.

"Walk yourself over to the teller's cage," the bandit ordered. Mearns, who had become familiar-

CITES AIMS OF SOVIET POLICY AT DAR DINNER

"The aims of Soviet foreign policy today are basically those bequeathed to his successors by Tsar Peter the Great more than two centuries ago and never yet achieved," Dr. Walter C. Langsam, president of Gettysburg College, told members of the Gettysburg Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution at a dinner meeting in the Hotel Gettysburg Friday night.

"The policy of the Communists in Russia today is essentially a Russian policy rather than a Bolshevik policy, but the Bolsheviks have brought into play new methods and new weapons which make the whole process far more dangerous for the West today than at any previous time," Dr. Langsam said. Continuing he said:

"The circumstances that it is an old and traditional policy has probably given it ready acceptance among the Russian people, particularly in view of the autocratic government control of press, radio and speech. But the policy is more dangerous today than in the time of the Tsars because it is combined with an aggressive and fanatic ideology that unfortunately has fifth-column appeal abroad; because mechanical developments have made the world smaller; and because today's instru-

Translations From Goethe Album Reveal Tender Sentiments Held By Great German Classical Writer For A Long-Time Friend

Friendship conveyed by a glance, or the reflection of true friendship as seen through the windows of the soul, the eyes, meant much more to Goethe, German poet, 1749-1832, than any spoken word, he wrote to his long-time friend, Countess Caroline Elgolfstein, lady in waiting to the Grand Duchess of Saxe-Weimar, Germany, in 1817, 15 years before his death.

This letter to the countess comprises one of the valuable pages of a leather-covered album presented to Gettysburg College in 1934, deposited in the vault of the Gettysburg National Bank, and now being translated by Dr. William K. Sundermeyer, professor of German at the college. It will later be available to serious students at the college library, according to Dr. Walter C. Langsam, president.

Goethe is one of the world's immortals in the field of poetry, drama and prose, and the album is considered one of the most valuable pieces of literature which the library of the college possesses. It was lost to the so-called scholarly world in 1891, when it was discovered in Germany by J. H. W. Stuckenberg, upon whom an honorary degree was conferred by the college in 1899. Dr. Stuckenberg purchased the volume, and it remained in his possession until his death. His widow, Mary Stuckenberg, resided at 49 Chambersburg St., and after she, too, had passed away, the album was given to the college by a relative, Gertrude Gingrich.

In a literal sense of the word, the album was never "lost," since it was known to be in Dr. Stuckenberg's possession, and, after 1934, in the bank's vault, with other valuable papers of the college. Former President, Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, knew of the existence of this volume, and it was listed by the bank, but it lay in obscurity in the bank vault until the new administration, headed by Dr. Langsam, brought it to light again.

Announcement of the "re-discovery" of the "lost" volume was made by The Gettysburg Times on Monday, February 16. It was transferred to a safe in the college library on Thursday.

In Library Safe

The album measures 6 1/2 inches by 8 1/2 inches. It contains 55 pages, several of which are blank. It has embossed leather covers in a dark red and what was probably once white, but is now yellow. The front cover contains a picture of the so-called temple in the park of the Grand Duke Charles Augustus of Saxe-Weimar, where Johann Wolfgang von Goethe often visited. On the rear cover is a reproduction of the hunting lodge in the same park.

The book contains three poems by Goethe, one of them never before published. It was written at Christmastime, 1827, five years before Goethe's death, and is entitled "Olive Branch with Fruits." Dr.

COLLEGE GRAD IS HELD UP BY BANK BANDIT

Andrew K. Mearns, 28, manager of the Fairfax branch of the Delaware Trust Company, three miles north of Wilmington, Del., was robbed of $8,000 in cash at gun-point Friday by a bandit who entered the branch and calmly executed the holdup single-handed.

Mearns is a graduate of Gettysburg College in the class of 1948 and is well known in Gettysburg. A tall, slim, black-haired bandit who was described as methodical but "disreputable looking," forced Mearns and another branch employee to lie on the floor while he scooped up the cash and fled, telling them he had two accomplices waiting on the outside.

Mearns told police the thug entered the small office at one end of the Fairfax shopping center about 10:45 a.m. to change some large bills.

Returns Short Time Later
He returned about 15 minutes later as a telephone was ringing in a rear office. Mearns turned to answer it and felt the muzzle of a blue steel revolver jammed in his side.

"Walk yourself over to the teller's cage," the bandit ordered. Mearns, who had become familiar-

The next-of-kin of these Americans who wish a copy of the book are asked to address a letter or a post card to Colonel Astor giving the following information:

Author Of Mary Lincoln Book Is Sister Of Mrs. H. Hanson

Collectors of Lincolniana can add a new book to their shelves. Little Brown and Company, Boston, published a biography of Mary Todd Lincoln, wife of President Lincoln, this month, entitled "Mary Lincoln, Biography of a Happy Marriage," by Ruth Painter Randall.

The author's first book, it is based largely on the Robert Todd Letters opened in Washington in 1947 which revealed a host of information on the Lincoln family. Some of the letters were written by Mary Todd Lincoln and others were written to her. By a will made by Robert Todd Lincoln, their eldest son, the collection was not to be opened until that date.

Mrs. Randall, a sister of Mrs. Henry W. A. Hanson, wife of the former president of Gettysburg College who retired last summer, lives with her husband, Professor J. G. Randall, at Champaign, Ill. Professor Randall, a noted Lincoln historian, has published several books on the sixteenth president of the United States. He taught history for some time at the University of Illinois. Mrs. Randall has come upon much valuable information while engaged in research with her husband. But the most up-to-date facts were discovered in the Robert Todd Lincoln collection.

The author, who often visited Dr. and Mrs. Hanson when they lived in Gettysburg, has written several sketches on the Lincolns for the magazine section of the

CITES AIMS OF SOVIET POLICY AT DAR DINNER

"The aims of Soviet foreign policy today are basically those bequeathed to his successors by Tsar Peter the Great more than two centuries ago and never yet achieved," Dr. Walter C. Langsam, president of Gettysburg College, told members of the Gettysburg Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution at a dinner meeting in the Hotel Gettysburg Friday night.

"The policy of the Communists in Russia today is essentially a Russian policy rather than a Bolshevik policy, but the Bolsheviks have brought into play new methods and new weapons which make the whole process far more dangerous for the West today than at any previous time," Dr. Langsam said. Continuing he said:

"The circumstances that it is an old and traditional policy has probably given it ready acceptance among the Russian people, particularly in view of the autocratic government control of press, radio and speech. But the policy is more dangerous today than in the time of the Tsars because it is combined with an aggressive and fanatic ideology that unfortunately has fifth-column appeal abroad; because mechanical developments have made the world smaller; and because today's instru-

The speaker for the evening was Miss Betty Livermore, executive secretary of the Adams County Rural Child Welfare Service, who spoke on the work of this organization in the county.

Miss Livermore said there were 120 children under the organization's care, 60 in their own homes and 60 in foster homes. Many of the cases are referred from Juvenile Court. Miss Livermore said she had worked with a number of judges, and felt that Judge W. C. Sheely "is one of the best. In the manner in which he conducts his hearings and disposes of the cases."

Miss Livermore said there are at present 28 foster homes in use. She urged homes to help in securing additional homes for the care of children. There is no age limit for foster parents and they are reimbursed for food and supervision.

Nineteen counties have programs as such as the one in use in Adams County, the speaker said. Twelve counties have no child care at all. As the close of her talk a discussion period was held during which Miss Livermore answered many questions.

ments of aggression are more destructive.

Seek Outlets To West

"What Peter was after, and what the Soviets still are after, as a first step toward world power, is the acquisition of 'windows to the West' in the form of easy warm-water access to the oceans — via the North Sea, the Near East (Constantinople and the Straits), the Middle East (Iran and the Persian Gulf), and the Far East (Manchuria and Korea)."

"Throughout two centuries, these aggressive designs were checked by Great Britain, Austria-Hungary, France, Germany, and Japan. Now, with the weakening of these five great powers, the task has fallen to the United States. And now the task is harder than ever, for the Soviet leaders have lost their fear of Western Europe, have propagated a belief of Russia's prowess in the Second World War, and have cushioned the homeland with satellites on both the eastern and western frontiers."

"Between 1710 and 1950, from Peter to Stalin, Russia has fought in twelve wars to further her expansionist aims, at average of one major war every twenty years for more than two centuries. As a result of this aggression, she has now emerged with the greatest territorial expanse and the greatest strength in her history. To her past official sins, moreover, she has now added that of an avowed Godlessness. May God so touch the hearts of her leaders that somehow they turn from their lust for power before a thirteen year brings catastrophe not only to the Russian people but to those of all His world."

per of the township are seeking to be separated from the remainder of the township for school purposes.

The reply was in answer to prior claims filed with the prothonotary by the Huntington school district and joined in by the Lakemore and York Springs school districts which make up the North Adams joint school system.

"Not Sound Procedures"

In their statement, the North Adams boards had claimed that disapproval by the state department of a new high school at York Springs was merely an administrative delay that could be settled by negotiation.

The reply claims that not only is the Department of Public Instruction against a new high school at York Springs, but also that plans of the North Adams joint school system for improving educational standards and facilities are not "based on sound technical and financial advice and procedures."

It adds that the decision of the state to disapprove the planned "establishment of a permanent secondary school center at York Springs was arrived at by the state department 'independently of and prior' to the placing of the petition by Upper Huntington seeking to be established as a separate school district."

The reply of the petitioners was signed by Attorney John L. Sweeney of Harrisburg and Attorney Daniel E. Teeter of Gettysburg.

Mention Woman Candidate

The withdrawal was accepted with regret. The Acorn Club, it was pointed out, was one of the first service clubs for women in Gettysburg. Mrs. Craver reported that she and the vice president, Mrs. Richard Naugle, were dinner guests of the Rotary Club recently and spoke on the objects of the council. She also reported receipt of a letter from Dr. Walter C. Langsam, president of Gettysburg College, offering the services of the college in any community matters suggested by the council. It was further reported that officers of the council have been invited to attend a meeting of the Adams County Fish and Game Auxiliary at Orrtanna on March 13.

Miss Louise Ramer called attention to the fact that the last meeting of the Parent Teacher Association was poorly attended, and urged council members to help promote greater interest and attendance at PTA meetings. The next meeting will be held February 26 at the high school. She pointed out also that Mrs. Golda Collins is a candidate for school director.

Hear Miss Livermore

Mrs. Craver discussed the borough's proposed municipal garbage collection system and asked council members to notify Mrs. Hennig as soon as possible on sentiment in their respective organizations.

The speaker for the evening was Miss Betty Livermore, executive secretary of the Adams County Rural Child Welfare Service, who spoke on the work of this organization in the county.

Miss Livermore said there were 120 children under the organization's care, 60 in their own homes and 60 in foster homes. Many of the cases are referred from Juvenile Court. Miss Livermore said she had worked with a number of judges, and felt that Judge W. C. Sheely "is one of the best, in the manner in which he conducts his hearings and disposes of the cases."

Miss Livermore said there are at present 28 foster homes in use. She urged women to help in securing additional homes for the care of children. There is no age limit for foster parents and they are reimbursed for food and supervision.

Nineteen counties have programs such as the one in use in Adams County, the speaker said. Twelve counties have no child care at all. At the close of her talk a discussion period was held during which Miss Livermore answered many questions.

"Throughout two centuries, these aggressive designs were checked by Great Britain, Austria-Hungary, France, Germany, and Japan. Now, with the weakening of these five great powers, the task has fallen to the United States. And now the task is harder than ever, for the Soviet leaders have lost their fear of Western Europe, have propagated belief of Russia's prowess in the Second World War, and have cushioned the homeland with satellites on both the eastern and western frontiers.

"Between 1710 and 1950, from Peter to Stalin, Russia has fought in twelve wars to further her expansionist aims, an average of one major war every twenty years for more than two centuries. As a result of this aggression, she has now emerged with the greatest territorial expanse and the greatest strength in her history. To her past official sins, moreover, she has now added that of an avowed Godlessness. God so touch the hearts of her leaders that somehow they turn from their lust for power before a thirteenth war brings catastrophe not only to the Russian people but to those of all His world."

per end of the township are seeking to be separated from the remainder of the township for school purposes.

The reply was in answer to prior claims filed with the prothonotary by the Huntington school district and joined in by the Latimore and York Springs school districts which make up the North Adams joint school system.

"Not Sound Procedures"

In their statement, the North Adams boards had claimed that disapproval by the state department of a new high school at York Springs was merely an administrative delay that could be settled by negotiation.

The reply claims that not only is the Department of Public Instruction against a new high school at York Springs, but adds that plans of the North Adams joint school system for improving educational standards and facilities are not "based on sound technical and financial advice and procedures."

It adds that the decision of the state to disapprove the planned "establishment of a permanent secondary school center at York Springs was arrived at by the state department 'independently of and prior' to the placing of the petition by Upper Huntingtown seeking to be established as a separate school district.

The reply of the petitioners was signed by Attorney John L. Swezey of Harrisburg and Attorney Daniel E. Teeter of Gettysburg.

GHS Comes From Behind To Nip Hanover In Overtime Thriller 57-53; Key Game Here Tuesday

A determined Hanover High School basketball team gave the Gettysburg High dribblers the scare of their lives Friday night at Hanover before the Warriors put on a strong finish to ultimately capture a thrilling 57-53 overtime decision and remain in a deadlock with Chambersburg for first place in the second half of the South Penn League.

Chambersburg and Gettysburg clash here Tuesday in the final regular season game and the loser of that contest will be eliminated as a title hopeful.

Trailing 46-40 after about 3:30 minutes of the final period, Coach George Forney's lads put on a desperate finish to go ahead 52-51 with a minute remaining. Eddie Slevin then blew a pair of free tosses for the Night Hawks and with 15 seconds left Norm Schue, the league's leading two point scorer, netted the second of two tosses to deadlock the count and send the game into overtime.

Shortly after the three-minute period started Bobby Rohrbaugh intercepted a Hanover pass and dribbled down court alone to score on a layup. About a minute remained when John Carter was fouled and he netted the first shot. Attempting to follow-up his missed second try he was again fouled and added the second of the shots. Seconds later Studt converted the first of two free chances and the scoring ended shortly before the whistle with Skip Fisel landing the second of two tries from the charity lane.

Hanover Pace-Setters
It was a hectic finish to a game which found Hanover setting the pace through the third and fourth periods due to superior work in controlling the ball off the boards.

Midway in the opening period Hanover led 6-3 before Gettysburg forged ahead 7-6 on a pair of fouls and goal by Gus Dayhoff. Both teams were off in shooting in the early moments and the period finally ended with the Forney-men scoring seven sawed until midway in the second quarter when the Warriors held a 23-17 lead. A run of seven straight points put the Hawks in front 24-23. Fisel knocked the score with a foul. In the closing minute George Penn and Frook exchanged goals and once again Bob Hixon came through with a desperation toss to give Gettysburg a 22-26 lead as the half ended.

Goals by Slevin and Studt and a foul by Schue sent Hanover ahead early in the third stanza and Coach Meyers' outfit led 36-30 with but two minutes remaining. Two fouls by Dayhoff, a goal by Carter, and goal and foul by Fisel sent the Warriors into a short-lived 37-36 lead as Hanover came back on a goal by Schue and foul by Stremmel to lead 39-37 going into the final round.

Immediately following next Tuesday's games here representatives of Carlisle, Chambersburg, Hershey and Gettysburg will meet with the league officers to make plans for the championship playoffs. Arrangements will be made despite one game remaining for next Friday evening. Waynesboro at Hershey, and all eventualities will be included in the plans.

Thrilling Finish
It looked as though the Gettysburg cause was hopeless when Hanover built up its 48-40 lead near the midway mark in the final period but the Warriors were not to be denied. Fisel made a steal and landed a goal and a short time later Hixon added another twin-pointer. Finally Gettysburg got a 50-49 lead on Carter's goal but with 1:30 left Studt sent the Hawks ahead on a close shot. Rohrbaugh stole the ball from a Hawk player and went under to put the Warriors in front at 52-51 with less than a minute remaining. Three straight missed shots from the free throw lane were followed by a conversion by Schue to knot the count and create the tie with resultant extra period.

The Warrior scrubs trailed 20-16 at half time in the preliminary game but put on a 17-point final period to top the Hanover scrubs 43-25. Fred Baker landed 16 points in leading the winners.

SCRANTON JOINS EASTERN LOOP; RAISE $7,500
SCRANTON, Pa. (AP)—Scranton will field a team in the Eastern Baseball League this season thanks to League President Thomas Richardson and a group of local fans who have chipped in the $7,500 needed to get the club going.

Richardson made the announcement at a meeting last night at which he also revealed that the Washington Senators of the American League, and the Chattanooga Lookouts of the Southern Association have made working agreements with the Scranton team.

The 11 sponsors of the team said they will form an executive committee to choose a field manager and a business manager. Later on, they said, they will select a president and other club officials.

The leagues is composed of Wilkes-Barre, Reading, Williamsport and Scranton, Pa., and Elmira, Schenectady, Albany and Binghamton, N. Y. The other clubs in the Class A loop had been ready to field their teams for some time.

Plan Booster Tickets
The group agreed to advance the money as a loan to be repaid in proceeds from the sale of "booster" tickets. Chamber of Commerce officials pledged an all-out campaign to sell some 25,000 tickets.

The Senators, Richardson said, have agreed to send the Scranton club nine players during the season and the Lookouts have promised five.

It was also agreed that Lou Bascia of New York, present owner of the franchise, will receive $3,500 for rental of the park, $2,500 for the franchise and $1,500 for equipment.

Coach Rogers Herr's team got off to a 4-0 lead and made things interesting for the Falcons before yielding an 8-7 lead to the visitors just before the first period ended.

Led by Forry, a fine performer who rolled up 24 points during the evening, the Falcons soared to a 26-12 half time margin and was never in trouble thereafter.

Hanover had been averaging better than 60 points per game and the locals had the satisfaction of holding them to their lowest total this season. The loss was the fourth in 13 hits for Gettysburg.

Luther Sachs' Jayvees put up their finest game of the season in snatching a 35-33 win in the preliminary game. With five seconds remaining Earl Little connected for the winning goal. The win was the ninth in 13 games for the reserves.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals, close to being transferred to Milwaukee as a week ago, counted themselves as one of the "money clubs" today with solid financial backing in the old home town.

Anheuser-Busch, Inc., one of the nation's largest breweries, bought the club yesterday for the announced purpose of keeping the Cardinals in St. Louis.

That puts the Redbirds in the class of such well-heeled clubs as the Boston Red Sox of Tom Yawkey, the New York Yankees of Dan Topping, the Detroit Tigers of Walter O. Friggs, and the Chicago Cubs of Phil Wrigley.

To Be Active Owner
August A. Busch Jr., 53-year-old president of the multimillion-dollar brewery who will become president of the Cardinals, said the sale was a $24 million dollar transaction.

Of that amount, 2½ million was paid to Fred Saigh, whose career as a club owner was cut-short by a 15-month prison sentence for federal income tax evasion. Busch said that in addition to the sum paid Saigh "we assumed an indebtedness of 1½ million dollars."

Busch, who planned an inspection trip today to the Cardinal offices at Sportsman's Park, said he will take an active part in management of the far-flung Cardinal organization.

Eddie Stanky Stays
William Walsingham Jr., remaining as vice president, will be the operating head of the organization which operates nine farm clubs and has working agreements with six others.

Long a baseball fan but better known as an expert horseman and ardent hunter, Busch said he planned no changes in the club and left no doubt that Eddie Stanky's job as manager is safe.

He called Stanky "one of the greatest managers in the country."

At the Cardinals' St. Petersburg, Fla., training base Stanky said he hated to lose Saigh as his boss but "I am happy he sold it to St. Louis people," Stanky said he was confident the players feel the same way.

One paddy produced by the sale is that a rival brewery, Griesedick Brothers, holds the 1953 Cardinal radio broadcasting rights and apparently will air games of the competitor-owned club, at least for this year.

Saigh's Career Closes
Anheuser-Busch made its bid for the Cardinals only after Saigh advised its banker representatives about a week ago he was about to close a deal with a Milwaukee group. Saigh told newsmen he was not at liberty to disclose members of the Milwaukee syndicate.

The Busch representatives said Saigh, who earlier had expressed a desire to see the club remain in St. Louis, "made several important concessions to keep them here and deserves sincere appreciation."

Thus ends the baseball venture of Saigh, which began when he and the late Robert E. Hannegan, former postmaster general, bought the Cardinals from the late Sam Freedman in 1947 with a cash outlay of only $60,000, which they borrowed. Saigh bought Hannegan's stock in 1949 for an estimated $888,000.

SCRANTON JOINS EASTERN LOOP; RAISE $7,500
SCRANTON, Pa. (AP)—Scranton will field a team in the Eastern Baseball League this season thanks to League President Thomas Richardson and a group of local fans who have chipped in the $7,500 needed to get the club going.

Richardson made the announcement at a meeting last night at which he also revealed that the Washington Senators of the American League, and the Chattanooga Lookouts of the Southern Association have made working agreements with the Scranton team.

The 11 sponsors of the team said they will form an executive committee to choose a field manager and a business manager. Later on, they said, they will select a president and other club officials.

The leagues is composed of Wilkes-Barre, Reading, Williamsport and Scranton, Pa., and Elmira, Schenectady, Albany and Binghamton, N. Y. The other clubs in the Class A loop had been ready to field their teams for some time.

Plan Booster Tickets
The group agreed to advance the money as a loan to be repaid in proceeds from the sale of "booster" tickets. Chamber of Commerce officials pledged an all-out campaign to sell some 25,000 tickets.

The Senators, Richardson said, have agreed to send the Scranton club nine players during the season and the Lookouts have promised five.

It was also agreed that Lou Bascia of New York, present owner of the franchise, will receive $3,500 for rental of the park, $2,500 for the franchise and $1,500 for equipment.

HANOVER ROUTS LOCAL JUNIOR HIGH DRIBBLERS
Hanover Junior High School's unbeaten basketball team gained its 21st straight victory here Friday evening as it outclassed a scrappy Gettysburg outfit 50-29.

Coach Rogers Herr's team got off to a 4-0 lead and made things interesting for the Falcons before yielding an 8-7 lead to the visitors just before the first period ended.

Led by Forry, a fine performer who rolled up 24 points during the evening, the Falcons soared to a 26-12 half time margin and was never in trouble thereafter.

Hanover had been averaging better than 60 points per game and the locals had the satisfaction of holding them to their lowest total this season. The loss was the fourth in 13 hits for Gettysburg.

Luther Sachs' Jayvees put up their finest game of the season in snatching a 35-33 win in the preliminary game. With five seconds remaining Earl Little connected for the winning goal. The win was the ninth in 13 games for the reserves.

Next Tuesday the locals finish their season with a double-header at Chambersburg.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals, close to being transferred to Milwaukee as a week ago, counted themselves as one of the "money clubs" today with solid financial backing in the old home town.

Anheuser-Busch, Inc., one of the nation's largest breweries, bought the club yesterday for the announced purpose of keeping the Cardinals in St. Louis.

That puts the Redbirds in the class of such well-heeled clubs as the Boston Red Sox of Tom Yawkey, the New York Yankees of Dan Topping, the Detroit Tigers of Walter O. Friggs, and the Chicago Cubs of Phil Wrigley.

To Be Active Owner
August A. Busch Jr., 53-year-old president of the multimillion-dollar brewery who will become president of the Cardinals, said the sale was a $24 million dollar transaction.

Of that amount, 2½ million was paid to Fred Saigh, whose career as a club owner was cut-short by a 15-month prison sentence for federal income tax evasion. Busch said that in addition to the sum paid Saigh "we assumed an indebtedness of 1½ million dollars."

Busch, who planned an inspection trip today to the Cardinal offices at Sportsman's Park, said he will take an active part in management of the far-flung Cardinal organization.

Eddie Stanky Stays
William Walsingham Jr., remaining as vice president, will be the operating head of the organization which operates nine farm clubs and has working agreements with six others.

Long a baseball fan but better known as an expert horseman and ardent hunter, Busch said he planned no changes in the club and left no doubt that Eddie Stanky's job as manager is safe.

He called Stanky "one of the greatest managers in the country."

At the Cardinals' St. Petersburg, Fla., training base Stanky said he hated to lose Saigh as his boss but "I am happy he sold it to St. Louis people," Stanky said he was confident the players feel the same way.

One paddy produced by the sale is that a rival brewery, Griesedick Brothers, holds the 1953 Cardinal radio broadcasting rights and apparently will air games of the competitor-owned club, at least for this year.

Saigh's Career Closes
Anheuser-Busch made its bid for the Cardinals only after Saigh advised its banker representatives about a week ago he was about to close a deal with a Milwaukee group. Saigh told newsmen he was not at liberty to disclose members of the Milwaukee syndicate.

The Busch representatives said Saigh, who earlier had expressed a desire to see the club remain in St. Louis, "made several important concessions to keep them here and deserves sincere appreciation."

Thus ends the baseball venture of Saigh, which began when he and the late Robert E. Hannegan, former postmaster general, bought the Cardinals from the late Sam Freedman in 1947 with a cash outlay of only $60,000, which they borrowed. Saigh bought Hannegan's stock in 1949 for an estimated $888,000.

GHS Comes From Behind To Nip Hanover In Overtime Thriller 57-53; Key Game Here Tuesday

A determined Hanover High School basketball team gave the Gettysburg High dribblers the scare of their lives Friday night at Hanover before the Warriors put on a strong finish to ultimately capture a thrilling 57-53 overtime decision and remain in a deadlock with Chambersburg for first place in the second half of the South Penn League.

Chambersburg and Gettysburg clash here Tuesday in the final regular season game and the loser of that contest will be eliminated as a title hopeful.

Trailing 48-40 after about 3:30 minutes of the final period, Coach George Forney's lads put on a desperate finish to go ahead 52-51 with a minute remaining. Eddie Slevin then blew a pair of free tosses for the Nighthawks and with 15 seconds left Norm Schue, the league's leading foul tosser, netted the second of two tosses to deadlock the count and send the game into overtime.

Shortly after the three-minute period started Bobby Rohrbaugh intercepted a Hanover pass and dribbled down court alone to score on a layup. About a minute remained when John Carter was fouled and he netted the first shot. Attempting to follow-up his missed second try he was again fouled and added the second of the shots. Seconds later Study converted the first of two free chances, and the scoring ended shortly before the whistle with Skip Fiscel landing the second of two tries from the charity lane.

Hanover Pace-Setters
It was a hectic finish to a game which found Hanover setting the pace throughout the third and fourth periods due to superior work in controlling the ball off the boards.

Midway in the opening period Hanover led 6-3 before Gettysburg forged ahead 7-6 on a pair of fouls and goal by Gus Dayhoff. Both teams were way off in shooting in the early moments and the period finally ended with the Forney-men scoring sea-sawed until midway in the second quarter when the Warriors held a 23-17 lead. A run of seven straight points put the Hawks in front 24-23. Fiscel knotted the score with a foul. In the closing minute George Penn and Brock exchanged goals and once again Bob Hixon came through with a desperation toss to give Gettysburg a 26-26 lead as the half ended.

Goals by Slevin and Study and a foul by Schue sent Hanover ahead early in the third stanza and Coach Meyers' outfit led 36-30 with but two minutes remaining. Two fouls by Dayhoff, a goal by Carter, and goal and foul by Fiscel sent the Warriors into a short-lived 37-36 lead as Hanover came back on a goal by Schue and foul by Stremmel to lead 39-37 going into the final round.

Immediately following next Tuesday's games here representatives of Carlisle, Chambersburg, Hershey and Gettysburg will meet with the league officers to make plans for the championship playoffs. Arrangements will be made despite one game remaining for next Friday evening, Waynesboro at Hershey, and all eventualities will be included in the plans.

Thrilling Finish
It looked as though the Gettysburg cause was hopeless when Hanover built up its 48-40 lead near the midway mark in the final period but the Warriors were not to be denied. Fiscel made a steal and landed a goal and a short time later Hixon added another twin-pointer. Finally Gettysburg got a 50-49 lead on Carter's goal but with 1:30 left Study sent the Hawks ahead on a close shot. Rohrbaugh stole the ball from a Hawk player and went under to put the Warriors in front at 52-51 with less than a minute remaining. Three straight missed shots from the free throw lane were followed by a conversion by Schue to knot the count and create the tie with resultant extra period.

The Warrior scrubs trailed 20-16 at half time in the preliminary game but put on a 17-point final period to top the Hanover scrubs 43-35. Fred Baker landed 16 points in leading the winners.

Their 11th victory of the season will be the goal of the Gettysburg College cagers here tonight when they meet the Bucknell Bison.

The Bullets have shown great improvement in their last two games and hope to play up to their new found form against the Bisons. Bucknell, with a young and green team, has a 2-11 record. Johnny Yovicsin's freshmen may have considerable trouble with St. Francis Prep in the preliminary game at 7 o'clock due to the losses of George Hockenbury and Len Rein. Both were declared ineligible prior to the Dickinson game in as much as they are now listed as full-fledged sophomores. Joe Foulk and John Schwartz will be newcomers to the squad.

This afternoon the college wrestlers were to meet the Hofstra matman at 2:30.

PICK JASPERS TO WIN INDOOR TRACK CROWN

NEW YORK (AP)—The old college try replaces the lure of a possible world record in the IC4A Indoor Track Championships tonight but the track crowd is expected to turn out anyhow for the most spirited of the season's indoor meets.

College alumni figure to jostle the regular track bugs for seats in Madison Square Garden, even though the team championship is almost certain to go to Manhattan's potent Jaspers for the third straight year.

Manhattan, second in the AAU championships a week ago, even has one of the few likely threats to world records among the 665 athletes from 42 colleges entered. That's Steve Dillon, who has been close to the 35-pound weight mark in every meet this winter.

Sox Faces Test
Another possibility is Penn State's Ollie Sax, who was clocked in 1:10.4 in his near dead heat with Mal Whitfield in the AAU 600 last week. That's only two-tenths of a second off the mark. And Sax will have to run his best to turn back Manhattan's ace, defending champion Vern Dixon and Lou Jones.

George Eastment's talented Manhattan youngsters are counted on for about 40 points, just about double the amount allocated to the expected runner-up, Penn State.

Villanova's Fred Dwyer, unbeaten in the big indoor miles this season, will be gunning for the first double ever scored in the AAU and IC4A championships.

Reading Shortstop Joins Wisconsin Club

CHICAGO (AP)—Shortstop Joe Borzello of Reading, Pa., a member of the Pennsylvania State High School Championship Baseball Team, has signed with Wisconsin Rapids, a Chicago White Sox affiliate.

In addition to his prep baseball, the 160-pound Borzello also played four seasons of Junior American Legion ball. He batted as high as .428 with the Legion team and never was below .340. During the winter he has been working in a potato chip factory at Reading.

SCRANTON JOINS EASTERN LOOP; RAISE $7,500

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP)—Scranton will field a team in the Eastern Baseball League this season thanks to League President Thomas Richardson and a group of local fans who have chipped in the $7,500 needed to get the club going.

Richardson made the announcement at a meeting last night at which he also revealed that the Washington Senators of the American League, and the Chattanooga Lookouts of the Southern Association have made working agreements with the Scranton team.

The 11 sponsors of the team said they will form an executive committee to choose a field manager and a business manager. Later on, they said, they will select a president and other club officials.

The leagues is composed of Wilkes-Barre, Reading, Williamsport and Scranton, Pa., and Elmira, Schenectady, Albany and Binghamton, N. Y. The other clubs in the Class A loop had been ready to field their teams for some time.

Plan Booster Tickets
The group agreed to advance the money as a loan to be repaid in proceeds from the sale of "booster" tickets. Chamber of Commerce officials pledged an all-out campaign to sell some 25,000 tickets.

The Senators, Richardson said, have agreed to send the Scranton club nine players during the season and the Lookouts have promised five.

It was also agreed that Lou Baselle of New York, present owner of the franchise, will receive $3,500 for rental of the park, $2,500 for the franchise and $1,500 for equipment.

YANKEES HAVE MUCH CONTRACT WORK WAITING

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Most of the major league clubs are getting their gloves, bats and baseballs out of the mothballs these days. But the World Champion New York Yankees are scheduled to depart for their St. Petersburg, Fla., base today armed with a healthy supply of pens, ink and contract forms.

George Weiss, Yankee general manager, left for the Yankee camp yesterday to meet with Manager Casey Stengel, who is lying in from the team's school at Glendale, Calif.

Only four of the unsigned Yankees are due Monday when the pitcher-catcher camp opens, but they are the big ones — Allie Reynolds, Vic Raschi, Eddie Lopat and Whitey Ford.

Predicts Five In A Row
Of the main squad, due March 1, still unsigned are Mickey Mantle, Johnny Mize, Joe Collins, Phil Rizzuto, Hank Bauer, Gene Woodling, Billy Martin and rookie Kal Segrist.

Once all the champions are in the fold, the rest of the American League clubs might as well pack their bags and take the trek back home—that is if Charley Dressen's crystal ball is in good working order.

"Casey Stengel will make it five in a row," the Brooklyn manager said yesterday, hurriedly adding, "and I think we can beat them this year."

All-Rookie Lineup
Dressen's opinion notwithstanding, some of the other big league squads proceeded to go through the motions of getting in shape for the upcoming campaign.

Manager Lou Boudreau, after dismissing his pupils from yesterday's baseball school session at Sarasota, said he will start an all-rookie lineup when his Boston Red Sox open the "grapefruit" campaign against Cincinnati March 7.

At Mesa, Ariz., the Chicago Cubs started spring practice with Manager Phil Cavarretta putting his charges through a light workout. The 36-year-old Cavarretta said he wants to stay active, probably as a pinch-hitter.

Masterson Absent
Eighteen players took part in Washington's opening workout at Orlando with pitcher Walt Masterson conspicuous by his absence. The veteran hurler ignored the deadline for signing set by Vice President Calvin Griffith.

Harry Byrd, the American League's Rookie of the Year in 1952, reported ready for work at the Philadelphia A's West Palm Beach quarters, recovered from a siege of the flu. Trainer Packy Schwartz, who handed out flu preventative pills to the squad early this week, took Byrd's place in sick bay — with the flu.

Del Rice Signs With Cardinals

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Del Rice of the St. Louis Cardinals, described by Manager Eddie Stanky as the National League's best defensive catcher, finally has signed his 1953 contract and will fly to the St. Petersburg, Fla., training base Sunday.

After a brief conference yesterday with owner Fred Saigh, Rice said he was given "pretty much what I wanted." He was believed to have signed for between $16,000 and $18,000, compared to a reported $15,000 salary last year.

ELEVEN COLTS RACE TODAY FOR $131,600 PURSE

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—Eleven colts, ranging in quality from turfdom's aristocracy to the claiming ranks, go to the post today to race for a purse of $131,600 in the 16th running of the Santa Anita Derby.

Upwards of 50,000 fans were expected at Santa Anita Park for the second of four $100,000 attractions on the winter schedule, and apparently most of them figured to place their confidence, and money, on the Derby favorite, Andrew J. Crevelin's Kentucky colt, Decorated.

The mile and one-eighth struggle of the 3-year-olds was no cinch affair for the California turfman, of course, and Decorated faced a stiff argument in his bid for the $84,500 top money.

Close behind Decorated, a $4,200 bargain buy by Crevelin at Lexington, Ky., in 1951, was a Bull Lea colt from the always feared Calumet Farm, Chanlea.

Calumet captured the Derby last year with Hill Gal, who went on to annex the Kentucky Derby. Few think that Chanlea rates in the same class with Hill Gal, but many refuse to bet against Calumet despite Chanlea's two defeats in stakes engagements this season to Decorated.

Another Argument Over Garden Bout
NEW YORK (AP)—George Araujo is talking title today and Paddy De Marco is screaming "Where's Christenberry?"

Araujo figured he won a shot at lightweight champion Jimmy Carter last night when he grabbed a split decision over De Marco in a Madison Square Garden 19-rounder.

De Marco, the Brooklyn Billy-goat, thinks Bob Christenberry, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, should reverse this one. Christenberry recently reversed the decision of the Joey Giardello-Billy Graham fight but the courts gave it back to Giardello.

A majority of ringside critics thought Araujo, a sharp-shooting boxer, deserved the decision given him by judges Bert Grant (6-3-1) and Charley Shortell (6-4).

The minority—plus De Marco's dressing room—agreed with Referee Harry Kessler's ballot for Paddy 6-3-1.

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Murry Dickson, one of the mainstays of the Pittsburgh Pirates pitching staff, has agreed to 1953 terms.

The 27-year-old right-hander won 14 and lost 21 with the last place Pirates in 1952. Dickson was one of the highest paid hurlers on the Bucs staff. Terms for 1953 were not disclosed.

RIGHT WINGER LEADS BARONS TO LOOP LEAD

By The Associated Press

Steve Wochy's real surname is Wojciechowski. But anyway you look at it, the 30-year-old right wing is going all out in Cleveland's drive to stay on top in the American League Hockey race.

Wochy scored a vital goal in the third period as the Barons took undisputed possession of the lead last night by whipping the Buffalo Bisons, 3-2, in the only league game played.

In the second period, Wochy and Verh Kaiser of the Bisons exchanged blows resulting in five minute penalties for each player and three stitches to close a cut on Kaiser's forehead.

Steve still was full of fight in the final period. With Cleveland ahead, 2-0, he took passes from Jack Gordon and Eddie Olson at 2:21 and rammed one into the Buffalo nets.

The last-place Bisons rallied for two goals by Calum MacKay and Jimmy Conacher but Cleveland held on to preserve its sixth straight victory.

Johnny Gonsalves After Title Bout
BOSTON (AP)—Stylish Johnny Gonsalves of Oakland, Calif., is convinced he can assure himself of a crack at Jimmy Carter's lightweight boxing title by topping Henry Davis of Los Angeles, tonight in their 10-round rubber engagement which will be televised nationally.

The California battlers will swing into action at 9 p. m. (EST) with New England backed out. Each holds a TKO decision over the other. In their initial meeting Davis became the victor by cutting Gonsalves over the eye. The latter treated Davis in the same fashion to square their fistic feud.

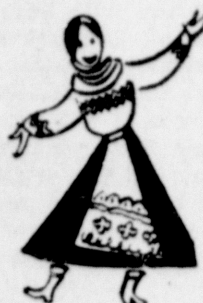

Rated as the No. 1 contender, Gonsalves rates as a slight favorite over Davis, a rugged performer who keeps his two fists swinging from an upright stance.

ACCEPTS BUC TERMS
PITTSBURGH (AP)—Catcher Joe Rossi, who along with Cal Abrams was traded by the Cincinnati Reds to the Pittsburgh Pirates for outfielder Gus Bell, agreed to 1953 contract terms today.

The 30-year-old 195-pounder from Albany, Calif., hit .221 for the Reds in 1952.

Norris, Michaux district forester, to organize boys 15 years of age and older in Gettysburg and western Adams County as forest fire fighters to serve as a branch of the Civilian Defense organization.

Cessna has begun the work at Gettysburg high school and soon will contact pupils at Fairfield, Biglerville and Ardenville schools.

Mighty Nazi Stronghold Crumbling: (By Roger Greene, Association Press War Editor) Adolf Hitler's high command acknowledged today that Russian troops had entered the outer suburbs of Kharkov, the Great German stronghold 400 miles west of Stalingrad while on the North African front the Nazis entered American-held Gafsa in Tunisia.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters said small enemy forces rolled into Gafsa yesterday evening thereby threatening to cut the 300-mile-long Allied front near the middle and set heavy fighting between armored forces raged in the area west of Faid.

Thompson-Codori: Miss Jeanne Marie Codori, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Codori, and Pvt. Robert Earl Thompson, United States Marine Corps, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Two to all holders of Book One, better known as the "sugar and coffee book."

Public school teachers again will.

Today's Talk
FOR LOVE OF BOOKS
Oliver Wendell Holmes spoke of books "as well mannered companions." Barry Cornwall wrote: "All round the room my silent servants, wait, my friends in every season." When Laurence Sterne's neighbors considered him alone in his home, he was actually "in company with more than five hundred mutes — each of whom, at my pleasure, commutes his ideas to me by dumb signs — quite as intelligibly as any person living can do by uttering words."

Andrew Lang spoke of a book as "a friend whose face is constantly changing." And when Oliver Goldsmith had read a fine book, he considered it as gaining a "new friend," but after he had read it and returned to it, it became "an old one." Stevenson wrote that the reading of Marcus Aurelius in his "Meditations" was like taking a "royal hand" and as looking "into brave eyes," to "make a noble friend."

The great Dr. Samuel Johnson once said that "the best part of every author is in general to be found in his book." And it was Montaigne who said that if anyone wanted to learn about him, that one should go out and buy his book. Which makes me think of a delightful little book by George Barr McCutcheon, called "Books: Once Were Men." It's the best of a man or woman that goes into the book either writes. Thoreau referred to books as friends that we associated with our "choicest thoughts."

Charles Lamb once wrote of his "cheerful dining room, all studded over the rough with books." That about describes my own library. Books are everywhere. All the space about the walls, on stands, chairs, and my writing table burdened, happily, with them. I am never alone with books about me. They set me right when I seem most wrong. They prod me on. They give me hope and comfort. They point to many faults within me, and admonish me. Books are life!

THE TRUE AMERICAN
Standing firm and standing fast, Being faithful to the last, Fighting hard for better things, Breaking down old fetterings; Less of flesh and more of soul, Thinking always of the goal, In the distance, and the day When great wrongs shall pass away— This we say of every man Who's a true American.

Big of heart and broad of mind, Gentle, courteous and kind; Brave in danger's tragic hour, Conscious ever of his power, Yet, regardless of his might, Fond of peace and slow to fight, Never arrogant or mean,

True to God and true to man, Never filthy or unclean— Thus he serves his Maker's plan, Who's a true American. Ever since his race began, He has kept his standards high: Flung his banners to the sky As a symbol of life's best, Greed has never stained his crest, Nor oppression scarred with shame

Treasures that were his to claim, All that wealth becomes a man Marks the true American.

Pushpa Mahtani, Indian Co-ed At Gettysburg College, Says U.S. Girls Are Friendly, Busy

Miss Pushpa Mahtani, an Indian who spent most of her life in Indonesia, and is now a student at Gettysburg College, thinks American girls are both very friendly and very busy. Women in her own land are shy, "and don't give opinions," she says. "I guess you would say we have an inferiority complex."

Pushpa entered college here at the start of the second semester. Her parents preferred that she "become domesticated" after graduating from high school, but she wanted to learn more, travel in foreign lands, meet new people, and study their customs.

She finally persuaded them to permit her to work in the United States Information Services. Coming to America wasn't as easy to sell, but she at last got up sufficient courage to stand pat, on her determination, even though her father did not concede until the last minute. As a result, she arrived in New York only two days before the opening of the term.

Puzzled By Escalator
She did have time to go to Macy's. Puzzled by the escalator, she hesitated, but not for long. An American woman shopper cried out: "Hurry up, will you?" and proceeded to push her. Pushpa passes that one off as the American way of getting things done.

Pushpa and three sisters were in Indonesia when the Japanese invaded and they boarded the last plane out for India. Her parents had hopes to follow shortly. It was actually six years later that the daughters heard any word of their parents. Pushpa stayed at a convent in India, then returned to Indonesia, where she attended a school directed by an American principal. Here she developed her interest in psychology, her major subject at Gettysburg.

Some of her intense interest in American ways undoubtedly stems from working in the American consulate for two years. In her home town of Medan she attended a dancing school, where she was taught a few steps, but since the school did not have dances her practice opportunities were practically nil.

To Finish In 3 Years
Pushpa likes movies, enjoys most American food, and thinks it's better than Dutch or English fare. Her interest in psychology is in applying it to problems of women in her own country.

She hopes to finish schooling at Gettysburg in three years by attending both summer and winter sessions. After graduation she says she will return to Indonesia and help the women of that country. "America is wonderful," she says, "but, as you Americans say, there's no place like home."

Turkish Girls Are Modern But Retain Old Customs

IZMIR, Turkey (AP) — Memo to the American service man going to Turkey:

Despite her western appearance, and the fact that this year's Miss Turkey stripped to bare bathing suit essentials and won the title of Miss Europe in a Naples beauty contest, don't expect the Turkish girl to be anything like any of the other girls you have met in Europe.

According to the history books, the Moslem veil — sort of symbol of a Turkish woman's cloistered life — fell from her face in 1923 by government decree.

But the American who attempts to fraternize with a Turkish girl is up against a social barrier every bit as unbreachable as was the code of her veiled mother.

This "psychological veil" which persists is stern parental control, underlined by deep Moslem religious and moral convictions.

Victorian Age
From the humblest village to metropolitan Istanbul, the Turkish girl and her brother grow up in a Victorian atmosphere that is hard for a GI to believe when he sees it for the first time.

Now that SHAPE's newest arm of its crescent of defenses, Allied Land Forces Southeastern Europe, has come to Izmir (old Biblical Smyrna), and Americans are beginning to cluster in this ancient city, yet another host-guest relationship must be worked out.

One of the first shocks to an American, used to an easy and casual family relationship, is the spectacle of a Turkish girl rising to her feet when either of her parents enters the room.

All of this the American serviceman might accept as natural if the Turkish girl were still a subservient, overly polite nonentity padding about in curly toed slippers and flowing robes.

"Appealing Girl"
Prototype Miss Turkey, 1952, however, is a fresh, appealing girl, who dresses in strikingly current American and French fashions, uses facial makeup adroitly, wears her hair in a horseshell or poodle cut, reads American magazines avidly, and is at ease with a rumba step or square dance.

Apart from her predominantly dark hair and eyes, she has little in appearance to indicate a difference from the American girl.

Will speak on "The Church in Europe Today" at the meeting of the Women's Club Wednesday afternoon at the Y.W.C.A. The hostess committee includes Mrs. R. R. Gresh, Mrs. Lloyd C. Keefe, Mrs. James P. Cairns, Mrs. Rebecca Ober, Mrs. I. C. Bucher, Miss Anna Cairns and Mrs. W. D. Hartshorne.

ferent nationality and religion. Like the American service man going to Turkey, that is, except her name, which may be Turkish or Arabic, but more often than not is a bit of melodious prose whose translation captivates a foreigner, and is a reminder of the American Indian.

Strange Names
She may answer when called to Mehpe (A Piece of Moon), Merai (Doe Eyes), Ayten (Color of the Moon), Ifet (Honor), Maltem (Breeze), Servin (Be Happy), Serap (Mirage), and Sevgi (Love or Affection).

Sociologically, the Turkish girl relationship has never passed the "gang" stage. Pastimes of Turkish girls in their early teens are confined to all-girl group activities, or school-class parties involving dozens of persons their own age.

In later years, she is permitted to have friends in her home for informal get-togethers. Usually, she only invites her closer girl friends, who bring along their brothers and cousins.

In the big port towns of Istanbul and Izmir — first and second largest cities in Turkey — the Turkish lass in her late teens is permitted to attend formal balls, evening gowns and tux affairs, which might, at first glance, look as if they were staged in Richmond, Va., Columbus, O., St. Louis, Mo., Oklahoma City, or Portland, Ore.

But there's a rub: Her brother or father escorts her to the event — and comes to take her home when it is over.

The potentially romantic American, if he takes the trouble to ask, is told that it is rigidly taboo for a Turkish girl to go out alone with a young man — no matter what his nationality.

When a young Turk in conventional society decides on a lady of his choice, he goes first to his parents and talks it over with them. They make the contact with the girl's family. After the subject has been bandied about on both sides, and approvals are reached on both sides, the girl's parents approach her. If she agrees, the engagement is on.

If there is disagreement in the family phase, the suitor's bid may never get any further than being an item of table conversation, regardless of the couple's feelings.

Then comes the ritual which the American finds staggering. Even today the engagement is announced, in many instances the Turkish swain is still not allowed to go out alone with his fiancée before the marriage.

Seven U. S. Presidents were born in Ohio.

ISLAND OWNER WOULD SECEDE FROM IRELAND

ROSSLAKE HARBOR, Ireland (AP) — A four-ton coronation chair, hewn from solid rock, recently was floated on a special raft from a village near here to 500-acre Great Saltee Island.

The chair was for the island's Prince Michael Neale — he added Prince to his baptismal names — who plans to set up an independent principality on the isle.

Great Saltee lies a bit more than three miles off the southeast corner of Ireland. The whole affair is a dream — come — true for 51-year-old Neale. Born on the mainland, as a boy he used to dream that one day the islands would be his, and he would be a prince.

Started From Scratch
He went to London, sold newspapers, washed dishes, worked his way up to sales manager at a chemical factory. Then he began manufacturing chemicals on his own account, invested his profits in farming. When the island was offered for sale in 1945 he moved right in.

In addition to his coronation chair Neale had his own flag designed. It's red, white and blue, with six white stars and one black — symbolizing his six living children and one dead. It flies from the island's highest peak.

Neale's "subjects" number about 30 humans — mostly laborers and ornithologists — and perhaps three million sea birds. Great Saltee is one of Europe's leading bird sanctuaries.

There is no palace for the self-styled prince — just a trim little white-painted bungalow.

WARMTH STORED UP OVER NIGHT

LONDON (AP) — A British company has designed a new form of space heater to offset the shortage of electric power generating plants.

Because everybody needs electric power at certain peak periods and then most consumers switch off at around the same time, British power stations have surplus energy for some parts of the 24-hour period and at other times cannot produce enough current to meet demand.

The new General Electric Co. heater aims at overcoming this difficulty — by storing heat for long periods in a block of concrete. Consumers switch their radiators on during the night — when there is plenty of spare current — and for the next eight hours an electric element pours its heat into a block of concrete.

Next morning the radiator is switched off, but the hot concrete continues to warm a large room for the rest of the day. During the charging period, radiators emit enough heat to provide a comfortable temperature for the start of the day.

Order Equipment For Vaccination

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — President Getulio Vargas has authorized the National Yellow Fever Service to purchase $100,000 worth of equipment in the United States for its vaccination campaign.

The money will go in part for the purchase of transport equipment needed by the vaccination teams. The service recently was instrumental in checking an outbreak of jungle yellow fever in Southern Sao Paulo. An estimated 200,000 persons were vaccinated during the campaign there.

MANILA (AP) — United Nations and Philippine scientists are conducting joint research in the Philippines to determine if 240,000 tons of waste hemp discarded annually can be used by the pulp and paper industry. Preliminary reports indicate the waste from hemp contains valuable fibers suitable for paper materials.

MANY IDEAS TO BETTER LOT OF MOTORISTS

HARRISBURG (AP) — Pennsylvania's lawmakers, driving back and forth to the State Capitol each week, have come up with a multitude of ideas for bettering the lot of the average motorist.

More than 60 separate bills directly affecting motor vehicles have been introduced with the 1953 General Assembly less than two months old. It is by far the most popular subject for proposed legislation.

Cover Many Phases
The bills cover practically every phase of motoring from licensing changes to the erection of signs denoting the number of persons killed at certain dangerous spots.

So far, only two of the bills have come out of committee in either chamber. Both passed the House handsly and appear to have clear sailing in the Senate.

The first bill through the House would eliminate the ceiling of $3,500 on the construction of the popular roadside rests along Pennsylvania highways.

E. L. Schmidt, state highways secretary, said that administration measure will allow the addition of dozens of new small parks where motorists can pause for a drink of water or a bite of lunch.

The department is aiming for a goal of a roadside rest in practically everyone of the commonwealth's 67 counties. The present 16 highway parks include picnic tables, outdoor cooking furnaces, water fountains and rest rooms.

The other House-passed measure would double the present five-cent fee garages pay for auto inspection stickers with the entire fee going to support a highway safety promotion campaign. That fee is expected to bring in $440,000 during the current biennium.

Not Likely To Sell Executive Mansion

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. John S. Fine does not believe a plan to sell the Executive Mansion and build a new home for the governor will be followed through.

"I don't think they'll do it," Fine told a newsman, when asked about a proposal by Sen. Fred P. Hart, Jr. (R-Somerset) to sell the 89-year-old building on Harrisburg's River Front Drive.

Hare has a bill to that effect before the Senate. The implication is that the commonwealth then will proceed with building a new structure farther uptown along the Susquehanna River. The state purchased the land for such a project years ago.

Fine said he had nothing to do with preparation of Hare's bill. He has made his residence most of the time since taking office two years ago at the summer Executive Mansion at nearby Indianopolis Gap.

ELECTED 10TH TIME
CAIRO, Ill. (AP) — Republican John M. Dewey has started his 10th four-year term as Alexander County's circuit clerk. Dewey says the 40 years will give him the longest continuous record of anyone now in any elective Illinois office.

GIVE WARNING ON AIR RAIDS

HARRISBURG (AP) — Pennsylvania's 3½ million automobile owners today began receiving a card bearing air raid warning instructions with their 1953 license plates.

The card carried a message from Gov. John S. Fine urging motorists to memorize the instructions with the warning: "They are designed for your survival."

"All Pennsylvania motorists will be required to put them to actual use in a statewide air raid precautions test to be held during the month of April," explained Dr. Richard S. Gerstell.

The instructions read: "Pull to the side of the road and stop; leave lanes open for emergency vehicles and keep all intersections clear; shut off motor and lights; get out and take cover, if handy; otherwise, crouch or lie down in vehicle; resume travel on 'all clear,' unless otherwise directed."

ADMEN ASKED TO ELIMINATE MISLEADING ADS

HARRISBURG (AP) — Pennsylvania newspaper advertising men were called upon here to take steps to eliminate misleading advertising.

"There is a minority who think that freedom of expression in the printed and spoken words of advertising allows them the chance to make absurd statements and claims regardless of truth of consequences," said Robert J. Powderly, of Sales Promotions, Inc.

In an address yesterday before the annual Display Advertising Conference sponsored by the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers Association, Powderly scored exaggerated advertising claims made in newspaper, radio and television by a "small but active minority of retailers."

"Truth in advertising is not too sacred by today's standards of good customer relationship and it's about time we do something about it," Powderly asserted.

The two-day parley came to a close today with a question and answer session featuring a panel of three including R. W. Rhoades, assistant to the publisher of the Oil City Derrick and Blizzard; Earl J. Gaines, advertising director of the Pittsburgh Press, and Ernest A. Doeppke Jr., advertising director of the Harrisburg Patriot-News.

TEN YEARS AGO
Mrs. V. Myers Will Succeed Col. J. Barton: At a special meeting of the Adams County Board of Public Assistance held Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Verna H. Myers, county supervisor under the county board since last summer, was elected to the position of executive director, to succeed Col. J. L. Barton, whose resignation from that office will become effective on March 1.

Mrs. Myers has been associated with relief work in Adams County since 1934. She began work under the present set-up January 1, 1938, as a visitor, continuing in that capacity until last summer.

Mrs. Mary K. McClean, acting chairman of the board, presided at the meeting with these members in attendance: Mrs. Maude Saby, B. E. Benner and Joseph H. Weaver.

Bernard Stock Weds in Texas: Miss Doris Miers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Miers, St. Petersburg, Florida, and Lt. Bernard A. Stock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Stock, were united in marriage Wednesday in the chapel of the South Plain Oldster School-Lubbock, Texas, by Chaplain Fr. Joseph McKenna. The ceremony was performed on the second anniversary of Lt. Stock's entrance into the service.

The bridesmaid was Mrs. Hazel Wilhelm and the best man was Lt. Peter Joly.

Bream-Stevens: Miss Dorothy V. Stevens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Stevens, York Springs, and PFC Clyde F. Bream, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Bream, Fairfield, were united in marriage Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the Elias Lutheran Church parsonage, Emmitsburg. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Philip Bower. The bride is an employee of the C. H. Musselman company, Biglerville. Private Bream is stationed at Fort Riley, Kansas.

A wedding supper was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn C. Bream, Gettysburg.

To Train Boys for Fire Duty: Jack Cessna, former district Boy Scout commissioner, has been asked by Thomas O. Norris, Michaux district forester, to organize boys 16 years of age and older in Gettysburg and western Adams County as forest fire fighters to serve as a branch of the Civilian Defense organization.

Cessna has begun the work at Gettysburg high school and soon will contact pupils at Fairfield, Biglerville and Arendtsville schools.

Mighty Nazi Stronghold Crumbling: (By Roger Greene, Association Press War Editor) Adolf Hitler's high command acknowledged today that Russian troops had entered the outer suburbs of Kharkov, the Great German stronghold 400 miles west of Stalingrad while on the North African front the Nazis entered American-held Gafsa in Tunisia.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters said small enemy forces rolled into Gafsa yesterday evening thereby threatening to cut the 300-mile-long Allied front near the middle—and said heavy fighting between armored forces raged in the area west of Faid.

Thompson-Codori: Miss Jeanne Marie Codori, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Codori, and Pvt. Robert Earl Thompson, United States Marine Corps, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Thompson, McKnightstown, R. D., were united in marriage Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at a ceremony performed in the rectory of St. Francis Xavier Catholic Church by the Rev. Fr. Mark E. Stock.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Carolyn Codori. Robert Hand was the best man.

The bride is employed at the Naval Depot, Mechanicsburg.

Private Thompson is stationed at New River, North Carolina.

Today's Talk

FOR LOVE OF BOOKS
Oliver Wendell Holmes spoke of books "as well mannered companions." Barry Cornwall wrote: "All round the room my silent servants, wait, my friends in every season." When Laurence Sterne's neighbors considered him alone in his home, he was actually "in company with more than five hundred mutes — each of whom, at my pleasure, commutes his ideas to me by dumb signs — quite as intelligibly as any person living can do by uttering words."

Andrew Lang spoke of a book as "a friend whose face is constantly changing." And when Oliver Goldsmith had read a fine book, he considered it as gaining a "new friend," but after he had read it and returned to it, it became "an old one." Stevenson wrote that the reading of Marcus Aurelius in his "Meditations" was like taking a "royal hand" and as looking "into brave eyes," to "make a noble friend."

The great Dr. Samuel Johnson once said that "the best part of every author is in general to be found in his book." And it was Montaigne who said that if anyone wanted to learn about him, that one should go out and buy his book. Which makes me think of a delightful little book by George Barr McCutcheon, called "Books Once Were Men." It's the best of a man or woman that goes into the book either writes. Thoreau referred to books as friends that we associated with our "choicest thoughts."

Charles Lamb once wrote of his "cheerful dining room, all studied over the rough with books." That about describes my own library. Books are everywhere. All the space about the walls, on stands, chairs, and my writing table burdened, happily, with them. I am never alone with books about me. They set me right when I seem most wrong. They prod me on. They give me hope and comfort. They point to many fault within me, and admonish me. Books are life!

Just Folks

THE TRUE AMERICAN
Standing firm and standing fast,
Being faithful to the last,
Fighting hard for better things,
Breaking down old fetters;
Less of flesh and more of soul,
Thinking always of the goal
In the distance, and the day
When great wrongs shall pass away—
This we say of every man
Who's a true American.

Big of heart and broad of mind,
Gentle, courteous and kind;
Brave in danger's tragic hour,
Conscious ever of his power,
Yet, regardless of his might,
Fond of peace and slow to fight,
Never arrogant or mean,

True to God and true to man
Never filthy or unclean—
Thus he serves his Maker's plan,
Who's a true American.
Ever since his race began,
He has kept his standards high;
Flung his banners to the sky
As a symbol of life's best.
Greed has never stained his crest,
Nor oppression scarred with shame

Treasures that were his to claim,
All that well becomes a man
Marks the true American.

Miss Pushpa Mahtani, an Indian who spent most of her life in Indonesia, and is now a student at Gettysburg College, thinks American girls are both very friendly and very busy. Women in her own land are shy, "and don't give opinions," she says. "I guess you would say we have an inferiority complex."

Pushpa entered college here at the start of the second semester. Her parents preferred that she "become domesticated" after graduating from high school, but she wanted to learn more, travel in foreign lands, meet new people, and study their customs.

She finally persuaded them to permit her to work in the United States Information Services. Coming to America wasn't as easy to sell, but she at last got up sufficient courage to stand pat on her determination, even though her father did not concede until the last minute. As a result, she arrived in New York only two days before the opening of the term.

Puzzled By Escalator
She did have time to go to Macy's. Puzzled by the escalator, she hesitated, but not for long. An American woman shopper cried out: "Hurry up, will you?" and proceeded to push her. Pushpa passes that one off as the American way of getting things done.

Turkish Girls Are Modern But Retain Old Customs

IZMIR, Turkey (AP)— Memo to the American service man going to Turkey:

Despite her western appearance, and the fact that this year's Miss Turkey stripped to bare bathing suit essentials and won the title of Miss Europe in a Naples beauty contest, don't expect the Turkish girl to be anything like any of the other girls you have met in Europe.

According to the history books, the Moslem veil — storied symbol of a Turkish woman's cloistered life — fell from her face in 1923 by government decree.

But the American who attempts to fraternize with a Turkish girl is up against a social barrier every bit as unbreachable as was the code of her veiled mother.

This "psychological veil" which persists in stern parental control, underlined by deep Moslem religious and moral convictions.

Victorian Age
From the humblest village to metropolitan Istanbul, the Turkish girl and her brother grow up in a Victorian atmosphere that is hard for a GI to believe when he sees it for the first time.

Now that SHAPE's newest arm of its crescent of defenses, Allied Land Forces Southeastern Europe, has come to Izmir (old Biblical Smyrna), and Americans are beginning to cluster in this ancient city, yet another host-guest relationship must be worked out.

One of the first shocks to an American, used to an easy and casual family relationship, is the spectacle of a Turkish girl rising to her feet when either of her parents enters the room.

All of this the American serviceman might accept as natural if the Turkish girl were still a subservient, overly polite nonentity padding about in curly toed slippers and flowing robes.

"Appealing Girl"

Prototype Miss Turkey, 1952, however, is a fresh, appealing girl, who dresses in strikingly current American and French fashions, uses facial makeup adroitly, wears her hair in a horsetail or poodle cut, reads American magazines avidly, and is at ease with a rumba step or square dance.

Apart from her predominantly dark hair and eyes, she has little in appearance to indicate a different nationality and religion. Little, that is, except her name, which may be Turkish or Arabic, but more often than not is a bit of melodious prose whose translation captivates a foreigner, and is a reminder of the American Indian.

Pushpa and three sisters were in Indonesia when the Japanese invaded and they boarded the last plane out for India. Her parents had hopes to follow shortly. It was actually six years later that the daughters heard any word of their parents. Pushpa stayed at a convent in India, then returned to Indonesia, where she attended a school directed by an American principal. Here she developed her interest in psychology, her major subject at Gettysburg.

Some of her intense interest in American ways undoubtedly stems from working in the American consulate for two years. In her home town of Medan she attended a dancing school, where she was taught a few steps, but since the school did not have dancers her practice opportunities were practically nil.

To Finish In 3 Years
Pushpa likes movies, enjoys most American food, and thinks it's better than Dutch or English fare. Her interest in psychology is in applying it to problems of women in her own country.

She hopes to finish schooling at Gettysburg in three years by attending both summer and winter sessions. After graduation she says she will return to Indonesia and help the women of that country.

"America is wonderful," she says, "but, as you Americans say, 'there's no place like home.'"

ISLAND OWNER WOULD SECEDE FROM IRELAND

ROSSLARE HARBOR, Ireland (AP)— A four-ton coronation chair, hewn from solid rock, recently was floated on a special raft from a village near here to 500-acre Great Saltee Island.

The chair was for the island's Prince Michael Neale — he added Prince to his baptismal names — who plans to set up an independent principality on the isle.

Great Saltee lies a bit more than three miles off the southeast corner of Ireland. The whole affair is a dream — come — true for 41-year-old Neale. Born on the mainland, as a boy he used to dream that one day the islands would be his, and he would be a prince.

Started From Scratch
He went to London, sold newspapers, washed dishes, worked his way up to sales manager at a chemical factory. Then he began manufacturing chemicals on his own account, invested his profits in farming. When the island was offered for sale in 1945 he moved right in.

In addition to his coronation chair Neale had his own flag designed. It's red, white and blue, with six white stars and one black — symbolizing his six living children and one dead. It flies from the island's highest peak.

Neale's "subjects" number about 30 humans — mostly laborers and ornithologists — and perhaps three million sea birds. Great Saltee is one of Europe's leading bird sanctuaries.

There is no palace for the self-styled prince — just a trim little white-painted bungalow.

WARMTH STORED UP OVER NIGHT

LONDON (AP)— A British company has designed a new form of space heater to offset the shortage of electric power generating plants.

Because everybody needs electric power at certain peak periods and then most consumers switch off at around the same time, British power stations have surplus energy for some parts of the 24-hour-period and at other times cannot produce enough current to meet demand.

The new General Electric Co. heater aims at overcoming this difficulty — by storing heat for long periods in a block of concrete. Consumers switch their radiators on during the night—when there is plenty of spare current—and for the next eight hours an electric element pours its heat into a block of concrete.

Next morning the radiator is switched off, but the hot concrete continues to warm a large room for the rest of the day. During the charging period, radiators emit enough heat to provide a comfortable temperature for the start of the day.

Order Equipment For Vaccination

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)— President Getulio Vargas has authorized the National Yellow Fever Service to purchase $100,000 worth of equipment in the United States for its vaccination campaign.

The money will go in part for the purchase of transport equipment needed by the vaccination teams. The service recently was instrumental in checking an outbreak of jungle yellow fever in Southern Sao Paulo. An estimated 200,000 persons were vaccinated during the campaign there.

MANILA (AP)— United Nations and Philippine scientists are conducting joint research in the Philippines to determine if 240,000 tons of waste material discarded annually can be used by the pulp and paper industry. Preliminary reports indicate the waste from hemp contains valuable fibers suitable for paper materials.

Seven U. S. Presidents were born in Ohio.

MANY IDEAS TO BETTER LOT OF MOTORISTS

HARRISBURG (AP)— Pennsylvania's lawmakers, driving back and forth to the State Capitol each week, have come up with a multitude of ideas for bettering the lot of the average motorist.

More than 60 separate bills directly affecting motor vehicles have been introduced with the 1953 General Assembly less than two months old. It is by far the most popular subject for proposed legislation.

Cover Many Phases

The bills cover practically every phase of motoring from licensing changes to the erection of signs denoting the number of persons killed at certain dangerous spots.

So far, only two of the bills have come out of committee in either chamber. Both passed the House and appear to have clear sailing in the Senate.

The first bill through the House would eliminate the ceiling of $3,500 on the construction of the popular roadside rests along Pennsylvania highways.

E. L. Schmidt, state highways secretary, said that administration measure will allow the addition of dozens of new small parks where motorists can pause for a drink of water or a bite of lunch.

The department is aiming for a goal of a roadside rest in practically everyone of the commonwealth's 67 counties. The present 16 highway parks include picnic tables, outdoor cooking furnaces, water fountains and rest rooms.

The other House-passed measure would double the present five-cent fee garages pay for auto inspection stickers with the entire fee going to support a highway safety promotion campaign. That fee is expected to bring in $440,000 during the current biennium.

Not Likely To Sell Executive Mansion

HARRISBURG (AP)— Gov. John S. Fine does not believe a plan to sell the Executive Mansion and build a new home for the governor will be followed through.

"I don't think they'll do it," Fine told a newsmen, when asked about a proposal by Sen. Fred P. Hare Jr. (R-Somerset) to sell the 89-year old building on Harrisburg's River Front Drive.

Hare has a bill to that effect before the Senate. The implication is that the commonwealth then will proceed with building a new structure farther uptown along the Susquehanna River. The state purchased the land for such a project years ago.

Fine said he had nothing to do with preparation of Hare's bill. He has made his residence most of the time since taking office two years ago at the summer Executive Mansion at nearby Indiantown Gap.

Unpublished Goethe Poem Found In Album

An album which Johann Wolfgang von Goethe, famous German classical poet and dramatist of the late 18th and early 19th centuries, presented to his friend, Countess Caroline von Egloffstein, in 1817, and which is now the property of Gettysburg College, contains, among other hand-written words of Goethe, these heretofore unpublished lines, "Olive Branch and Fruits." The album was purchased in 1891 in Germany by the late Dr. J. H. W. Stuckenberg. After his death it was presented, in 1934, to the college, by a relative, Gertrude Gingsrich.

The director of the Goethe National Museum in Weimar, Germany, signed his name (above) attesting in 1908 to the authenticity of Goethe's handwriting and signatures in the album, now owned by Gettysburg College, which the great German poet and dramatist presented to the Countess Egloffstein in 1817. U. S. MILITARY MANPOWER AND EXPENSES MAY BE SLASHED

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman Sarnoff (R-Mo) said Friday the House Armed Services Committee may consider a recommendation to cut military manpower and expenses by 10 per cent.

The recommendation was made by a special commission, appointed last October, to study military manpower under David Sarnoff, chairman of the board of the Radio Corp. of America.

The Sarnoff group, set up by the Truman administration last fall under Senate urging for such a study, submitted its report and disbanded on Wednesday. Sarnoff complained it had not had adequate cooperation from the pentagon.

A successor, with somewhat different powers, was named Thursday by Secretary of Defense Wilson. Its chairman is Nelson A. Rockefeller, Sarnoff is a member, as are Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, president of the Pennsylvania State College and a brother of President Eisenhower; Robert A. Lovett, Wilson's predecessor as secretary of defense; Dr. Vannevar Bush, Carnegie Institution president; Gen. Dr. Arthur S. Flemming, president of Ohio Wesleyan University, and Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Group Making Study

Rockefeller, Flemming and Eisenhower comprise a commission which the President set up on Nov. 30 to study the entire government and submit recommendations for reorganization, somewhat along the lines of the Hoover Commission.

While the Sarnoff group was charged primarily with studying military manpower, Secretary Wilson said the new commission's task will be to assist him in working out a "streamlined organization" and effective procedures in the Defense Department.

Short said of the Sarnoff group's report that "the real question is whether you can cut that much without impairing our military structure." The commission made no detailed recommendations as to how a 10 per cent cut should be made.

DOUBT GOP CAN CUT SPENDING TO EVEN BUDGET

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two Democratic members of the Senate Appropriations Committee said today they will help cut government spending but doubt the Republicans can balance the budget.

Senators Maybank (D-SC) and Robertson (D-Va) said in separate interviews they are just as anxious as their GOP colleagues to whittle the $78,690,000,000 in outlays for the year beginning July 1.

However, Robertson said:

"I think we ought to have a spending budget that balances receipts, but I don't think Congress will reach that goal even though we approach it."

See Cuts In Foreign Aid

Maybank said Republicans can count on his vote to side appropriations bills. But he said:

"The military requests will have to be slashed about 10 per cent to make any reduction that will come close to balancing the budget. I don't know what the attitude of the administration will be when it comes to reducing the military."

Maybank predicted the Senate committee will wield a sharp knife on foreign aid funds, possibly recalling some money already appropriated for that purpose.

Truman asked for $7,861,000,000 in new appropriations for foreign assistance. But Maybank said the Mutual Security Administration, now headed by Harold E. Stassen, "will be lucky if they get four billions."

Quadruple Amputee Arrives In States

TRAVIS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—The Air Force's first quadruple amputee of the Korean War arrived Thursday enroute to the Army-Air Force Amputee Center at Walter Reed General Hospital, Washington, D. C.

Arman C. Clarence Mosley, 27, of Patterson, N. J., lost all of his fingers and both legs below the knee to frostbite.

Mosley parachuted from a crippled B-26 bomber behind Communist lines Dec. 4. He spent a freezing night in the open before Korean civilians found him and led him through Red lines to safety.

He will be flown to Walter Reed soon to be fitted for artificial limbs.

Philadelphia (AP)—Opposition to House Bill 270—a legislative measure which would require a referendum of voters before a new Constitution could be drafted—was expressed by the Pennsylvania Bar Association's Committee on the Pennsylvania Constitution Wednesday.

"Such a referendum would serve no useful purpose and would have the effect of delaying the convening of a constitutional convention for at least two years," committee head Thomas Raeburn White said in a statement.

"Mr. Lincoln Comes To Gettysburg" Pageant Wins Freedom Foundation Award For 1952

Wants Congress To Denounce WM TO RECEIVE 11 STATES PLAN DRIVE TO CURB ROAD ACCIDENTS

WASHINGTON (AP)—One of the most puzzling things President Eisenhower has said since taking office—it was in his State of the Union message Feb. 2—was on the subject of war time secret agreements.

By putting together various statements since then, this seems to be what he had in mind: He wants Congress to denounce Russia, which has been roundly denounced in the past by this country, for breaking agreements.

And this week Eisenhower said he personally knows of no agreements which are really still secret in the sense of not being known. Some parts of the Roosevelt-Churchill-Stalin agreements in 1945 were kept secret for awhile.

The three men agreed that the people in the Eastern European countries, now under Russia's heel but then just being freshly liberated from the Nazis, should choose their own governments in free elections.

Reds Violated Pacts

Russia violated this agreement by making Communist-ruled satellites of these countries.

Eisenhower has expressed belief that denunciation of Russia as an agreement-breaker will give anti-Communists people among the satellites renewed hope of freedom.

But hope seems all they can expect right now. Communists control them so completely that nothing short of war seems capable of freeing them soon. And no one in the Eisenhower administration is talking of war.

When he first raised the subject of secret agreements, Eisenhower was trying to live up to a pledge contained in the July 1945 campaign platform of last July. It said: "The government of the United States, under Republican leadership, will repudiate all commitments contained in secret understandings such as those of Yalta, which aid Communist enslavement. It will be made clear, on the highest authority of the President and the Congress, that United States policy, as one of its peaceful purposes, looks happily forward to the genuine independence of those captive peoples."

Expect Red Retaliation

The word "repudiate" is far-reaching. If this country tried to repudiate one agreement made with Russia, the Communists, if it served them, could promptly repudiate other agreements which might hurt this country.

Berlin is a good example. The Americans, British and Russians made wartime agreements on dividing up Berlin and Germany. American officials in Berlin this week said not all those agreements have been published.

When it came time for him to deliver his message Feb. 2, Eisenhower did not go so far as to talk of "repudiating" agreements. This is what he said:

"... We shall never acquiesce in the enslavement of any people in order to purchase fancied gain for ourselves. I shall ask the Congress at a later date to join in an appropriate resolution making clear that this government recognizes no kind of commitment contained in secret understandings with foreign governments which permit this kind of enslavement."

But from the language, no one could tell for sure what Eisenhower meant or what agreements he might have in mind or whether he meant some war-time agreements still secret.

Not Formally Approved

So reporters asked for clarification when he held his first presidential news conference this week. Then, for the first time, he used the word "repudiate." He said he didn't assume it was desirable for the government to say everything agreed to was repudiated.

It was at this conference that Eisenhower said he personally knows of no agreements still secret only in the sense the Senate has not formally approved all of them.

But when Secretary of State Dulles held his news conference the following day, he said no "repudiation of any legally effective agreements" was intended. Making it clear that Eisenhower was proposing a joint resolution by Congress, Dulles said:

"The... declaration by the Congress and the President, has two primary purposes: One is to register dramatically what we believe to be the many breaches by the Soviet Union of the war-time understandings; and, secondly, to register equally dramatically the desire and hope of the American people that the captive people shall be liberated."

Other recipients of top awards Sunday will be Bishop Fulton J. Sheen, for his television program, "Life Is Worth Living," the Greater Muskegon Chamber of Commerce for "Freedom Week," Cecil B. DeMille for his public address entitled "Silent Voices," the Men's Club of the First Congregational Church of Phoenix, Ariz., for their "God and Freedom" medal project, Robert Montgomery for his radio broadcasts, "A Citizen Views the News," and Robert H. Niemeyer, address unknown.

LIFE DOES NOT BEGIN AT FORTY SAYS REPORTER

By RAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—I life begins at 40, then I am two years old today.

That puts me well into my second childhood on my 42nd birthday.

What nonsense! Life doesn't begin again at 40. And most people never go through a second childhood—because they never really outgrow the first one.

Reaching 42 is certainly no special occasion. It's been done before. Usually on birthdays I just lie in bed all day with the covers pulled over my head, enjoying a mild fever of regret at having become a year older.

Not this year. I don't mind it at all. Let the barnacles gather. Who cares?

Be Happy And Vote

The best thing in the world is to be 21, happy with a new love and a new job, and able to vote. You are about as wise and free and rebellious and honest as you will ever be. You will never be as certain about so many things again. It is as close as you will probably ever come to being a true adult.

The worst thing in the world is to be 39. That's downright pitiful. You see before you the inescapable corral of middle age, and behind you the lost pastures of youth. What a fearful lever of time, what a hateful teeter-totter, is a man's 39th birthday! Every fellow who survives that one ought to get a gold watch and a letter of congratulations from the mayor.

But 42 is just another niche in your personal history, a rather pleasant ledge on which to rest and count your scars as you survey the lengthening past and shortening future.

Only An Adventure

At 21 nothing you do is really a mistake—it is only an adventure of one kind or another. At 42 you figure that anything you do will be more of a compromise than a discovery. Instead of finding a new color in the rainbow you marvel how the world can contain so many shades of gray.

After 40 you don't attack a problem by trying for a knockout blow. You concentrate on infighting. And in almost any argument—at home or abroad—you are satisfied with a draw.

At 40 you don't mind so much that teen-agers regard you as a dinosaur. You feel they may be right. You can hear your bones crack now and then, and wonder if they can, too.

At 42, as your forehead rises and frost thickens at the temples, you have a quiet passion for this disturbing old world as it is, and want to keep it unchanged—like a mother who cherishes every freckle on a wayward son. For when any part of your world goes at 42, part of you goes, too.

Adopt Resolution On Senator's Death

WASHINGTON (AP)—A resolution of sorrow and regret on the death of former U. S. Sen. David A. Reed was passed by the Senate Wednesday.

The resolution, marking the passing of Reed — Republican from Pennsylvania—on Feb. 10—was co-sponsored by Sens. Edward Martin and James H. Duff.

Martin told the upper chamber Reed exercised "a powerful influence on national and international affairs" as a senator from 1922 to 1935.

Reed also was lauded by a former schoolmate, Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ).

BACKS CRUSADE FOR FREEDOM

HARRISBURG (AP)—Through a giant Freedom-gram, Gov. John S. Pine is calling all Pennsylvanians to join in the Crusade for Freedom's drive to keep the people of Iron Curtain countries informed.

Pine praised the crusade yesterday for "an effective job of helping counteract the hate-America propaganda pouring from the Moscow thought-mills."

"It is giving encouragement to the enslaved millions who are without recourse to the truth about our way of life, our beliefs and our customs," the governor said.

A freedom-gram is a telegram-like form containing a printed message to be beamed behind the Iron Curtain by the powerful transmitters of Radio Free Europe and Radio Free Asia.

The Pennsylvania drive, to run through Feb. 28, is aimed at getting more than a million Keystone State residents to sign Freedom-grams. More than 25 million Americans have joined in the campaign.

The Freedom-gram signed by Pine measures some four by five feet and was delivered to his office by M. D. Nason Jr. of Philadelphia, state chairman for the crusade.

STOCK MARKET MARGIN CUT IS GIVEN APPROVAL

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock traders and exchange officials voiced approval today of the stock market margin cut to 50 per cent, saying it will be good for business and industry in general.

The Federal Reserve Board yesterday reduced margin requirements from 75 per cent. The 25 per cent reduction means a return to the pre-Korean level. It was another move in the Eisenhower administration's program to get away from the national economy.

The board's action—which becomes effective when exchanges reopen on Tuesday after the three-day holiday week end—was announced after the nation's exchanges closed for the day.

Curbed Speculation

But securities dealers, reached for comment unanimously cheered the reduction. Volume of trading during the past week hit the lowest daily average since the final week of October, 1952.

Reserve board officials in Washington said the margin boost to 75 per cent following the Korean invasion was made for "psychological reasons"—to halt any impending wild speculation.

Brokers have argued that the government made investors put down what amounted to a 75 per cent down payment on stocks, whereas buyers of automobiles, TV sets and other consumer items may make much smaller down payments or none at all.

11 STATES PLAN DRIVE TO CURB ROAD ACCIDENTS

NEW YORK (AP)—A rural traffic "slow-down" campaign intended to reduce deaths and injuries, is planned by highway and safety officials of 11 Northeastern states.

The plan provides for the safety resources of the 11 states to be combined in a drive for a slow-down which would reach its climax in June when the summer driving increase starts.

A resolution calling for the campaign was adopted Wednesday by the Safety Coordinators of the Northeastern States.

The states represented in the organization are New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Vermont, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Delaware and Maryland.

Cooperation in the slow-down campaign was sought from police, the judiciary, motor vehicle administrators, education and information media, and the public.

The meeting was told that traffic fatalities in the 11 Northeastern states totaled 6,000 in 1952. Throughout the nation last year the death toll was 38,000 and the injured list 1,350,000.

Be Happy And Vote
The best thing in the world is to be 21, happy with a new love and a new job, and able to vote. You are about as wise and free and rebellious and honest as you will ever be. You will never be as certain about so many things again. It is as close as you will probably ever come to being a true adult.

The worst thing in the world is to be 39. That's downright pitiful. You see before you the inescapable corral of middle age, and behind you the lost pastures of youth. What a fearful lever of time, what a hateful teeter-totter, is a man's 39th birthday! Every fellow who survives that one ought to get a gold watch and a letter of congratulations from the mayor.

But 42 is just another niche in your personal history, a rather pleasant ledge on which to rest and count your scars as you survey the lengthening past and shortening future.

Only An Adventure
At 21 nothing you do is really a mistake—it is only an adventure of one kind or another. At 42 you figure that anything you do will be more of a compromise than a discovery. Instead of finding a new color in the rainbow you marvel how the world can contain so many shades of gray.

After 40 you don't attack a problem by trying for a knockout blow. You concentrate on infighting. And in almost any argument—at home or aboard—you are satisfied with a draw.

At 42 you don't mind so much that teen-agers regard you as a dinosaur. You feel they may be right. You can hear your bones crack now and then, and wonder if they can, too.

At 42, as your forehead rises and frost thickens at the temples, you have a quiet passion for this disturbing old world as it is, and want to keep it unchanged—like a mother who cherishes every freckle on a wayward son. For when any part of your world goes at 42, part of you goes, too.

Martin told the upper chamber Reed exercised "a powerful influence on national and international affairs" as a senator from 1922 to 1935.

Reed also was lauded by a former schoolmate, Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ.).

NEW OXFORD—George Stock was among the guests last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry K. Lawrence, near Hanover, when they gave a farewell party for their son, Robert, who was leaving as an inductee into the armed forces.

Miss Elina Smith, near here, was among the adult volunteer Girl Scout workers of the Hanover area who were given recognition last week at a ceremony at the Hotel Richard McAllister, Hanover. Miss Smith led the group singing. Her brother, C. Philip Smith, a student at King's College, Wilkes-Barre, was among young men appearing in a television broadcast over a Wilkes-Barre station Saturday with the college glee club.

Woodrow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ruelle W. Wolf, has been confined to his home by sickness.

Miss Eva C. Haar has recovered from the effects of the severe attack of a form of virus influenza with which she suffered some weeks ago. She had also recovered from the fractured ribs she sustained shortly after her illness when the car in which she was riding to East Berlin skidded near Mummert's Meeting House and went into a deep ditch. Miss Haar returned last week to her teaching duties at William Penn Senior High School, York.

Mrs. F. S. Smith has been ill for several weeks.
Mr. and Mrs. Albert F. Smith entertained last week at their home their younger son, Jack, now a corporal at Ft. Devens, Mass.

Mrs. Simon E. Altschull, who with her husband operates a department store here, was on the table decoration committee for the supper dance given at her home city of York over the weekend at the Jewish Community Center as a fund-raising project for the York County Hadassah chapter. Mrs. Altschull's daughter, Mrs. Jack Silverman, was publicity chairman for the event.

BACKS CRUSADE FOR FREEDOM

HARRISBURG (AP)—Through a giant Freedom-gram, Gov. John S. Fine is calling all Pennsylvanians to join in the Crusade for Freedom's drive to keep the people of Iron Curtain countries informed.

Fine praised the crusade yesterday for "an effective job of helping counteract the hate-America propaganda pouring from the Moscow thought-mills."

"It is giving encouragement to the enslaved millions who are without recourse to the truth about our way of life, our beliefs and our customs," the governor said.

A freedom-gram is a telegram-like form containing a printed message to be beamed behind the Iron Curtain by the powerful transmitters of Radio Free Europe and Radio Free Asia.

The Pennsylvania drive, to run through Feb. 28, is aimed at getting more than a million Keystone State residents to sign Freedom-grams. More than 25 million Americans have joined in the campaign.

The Freedom-gram signed by Fine measures some four by five feet and was delivered to his office by M. D. Nason Jr. of Philadelphia, state chairman for the crusade.

STOCK MARKET MARGIN CUT IS GIVEN APPROVAL

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock brokers and exchange officials voiced approval today of the stock market margin cut to 50 per cent, saying it will be good for business and industry in general.

The Federal Reserve Board yesterday reduced margin requirements from 75 per cent. The 25 per cent reduction means a return to the pre-Korean level. It was another move in the Eisenhower administration's program to get away from direct government controls on the national economy.

The board's action—which becomes effective when exchanges reopen on Tuesday after the three-day holiday week end—was announced after the nation's exchanges closed for the day.

Curbed Speculation
But securities dealers reached for comment unanimously cheered the reduction. Volume of trading during the past week hit the lowest daily average since the final week of October, 1952.

Reserve board officials in Washington said the margin boost to 75 per cent following the Korean invasion was made for "psychological reasons"—to halt any impending wild speculation.

Brokers have argued that the government made investors put down what amounted to a 75 per cent down payment on stocks, whereas buyers of automobiles, TV sets and other consumer items may make much smaller down payments or none at all.

A Bit Of History About Your Own Adams County

This is the 49th in a series of historical talks given over Radio Station WGET by Dr. Robert Fortenbaugh, Adeline Sager professor of history at Gettysburg College, on some of the outstanding events and interesting episodes in the development of Adams County.

In our last article we told the story of the Bard family which was attacked and captured by hostile Indians on April 13, 1758. Four of those captured were soon killed by the Indians and the others were carried westward. Richard Bard escaped and after nine days came to safety at Fort Lytleton.

On the fifth day after the raid, Stony Creek in the Allegheny Mountains was reached. While crossing the stream, Richard Bard's hat, which had been appropriated by the Indians, was blown off and the savage was forced to travel some distance down the stream to recover it. When he returned Bard had already crossed the creek, and this so enraged the captor that he beat him with his gun, nearly disabling him in the process. Because of this and the fact that almost certain death threatened him, Bard determined, if possible, to escape.

Up to this time Mrs. Bard had been kept away from her husband, but that evening they were permitted to assist each other in plucking a turkey. As they worked Richard Bard told his wife of his determination to escape at the first opportunity, and as it happened she was able to help him escape.

Wife Helps Husband
A favorite amusement of the Indians was to dress some of their number in the clothes of their female captives. On this evening one Indian put on Mrs. Bard's gown. While this game was in progress Richard Bard was sent to the spring near the camp for water. Just as he reached his destination Mrs. Bard began to take part in the Indians' fun and succeeded in holding their attention so that for the time, they forgot their captive at the spring. These few precious moments gave him the necessary opportunity to slip into the deep forest unobserved.

His escape was soon discovered, and a search for him went on for two days, without success. At the end of that time they again moved westward and northward, travelling down Stony Creek to the Allegheny River, and thence to Fort Duquesne. They remained at the fort only one night, and then continued on their way. Their next stop was at a point on the Beaver River, where the brutal torturing and murder of McManing was enacted before Mrs. Bard's horrified eyes.

Given To 2 Braves
At this point the two boys and the little girl, Hannah McBride, were left, and Mrs. Bard was sent to another Indian town to be

WINGED TOP—A crow's wing jutting above white and yellow organdie marguerites is chief feature of Paris creation called "Passionement" by designer Jean Blanchaud.

The town in order to claim the reward.
Bard promised to pay the 40 pounds when they reached Sunbury, but the savages refused to enter Sunbury, fearing capture themselves. Bard then offered to stay with them as hostage while Mrs. Bard went to the town with an order for the money. This offer put the Indians in good spirits and they decided to go on with the Bards, where the ransom was paid.

This was in September, 1760, so Katherine Bard was now free after a captivity of two years and five months. It is assumed that the Bards returned to their former home, but it is all too evident that that place held too many bitter memories for them. In 1764 they are known to have been living near what is now the village Williamson, in Franklin County, on the East Conococheague.

Richard Bard was born on February 3, 1736, at the father's plantation just a little north of the present Virginia Mills, on Mud Creek, the main tributary of Middle Creek. The father built a mill at that point, probably the first to supply that area. Richard learned the trade as miller, and shortly after his marriage to Katherine Poe, his father conveyed the tract, containing 121 acres, to him. This was known as the "Mill Place." Katherine Poe was born on June 3, 1737. It was at the "Mill Place" that the attack and capture of the Bards took place.

Indians Kill Son
Richard and Katherine Bard had one son, born September 27, 1757, and killed by the Indians shortly after the family was captured. After Mrs. Bard's return from captivity, four sons and six daughters were born to the couple. The first of these, Isaac, was born in Franklin County in February, 1762, and the last, Martha, was born at the same place in November, 1778.

During the War for Independence Richard Bard was a member of Captain Joseph Culbertson's company, Col. Arthur Buchanan's battalion of the Fifth Class, Cumberland County Militia. The part of the present day Franklin County in which the Bards lived was then a part of Cumberland County. He was with his company when, under the call of July 28, 1777, they served in the campaign around Philadelphia. Afterwards he served in the Rangers Company of Captain Walter McKinnie on the western frontier.

Richard Bard died on February 22, 1799, aged 63 years and 14 days. Katherine Bard died on August 31, 1811, aged 74 years, two months and 28 days. It seems that after the terror and suffering of their younger days, the Bards settled down to a happy and useful family life. Evidently their lives were not greatly shortened by

A tourist is merely a vagabond with a fat pocketbook.
How's That Invention?
How long does it take an idea to reach reality? Why do people get good ideas and not follow them through? Is there anything new under the sun?

That's what many are asking now that many motorists are using deskidder devices to sprinkle abrasives ahead of the rear wheels. Every motorist seems to have thought of the idea at one time or another. I remember a woman driver who kept prodding me to develop the idea way back in 1930. Then, as now, the chief difficulty was making the system simple yet reliable. Too many people thought it was just necessary to pull a wire and let a little sand drop down. They did not know that to do so would be impractical if it clogged. They did not foresee the need for designs that would fit different shapes of luggage compartments. And they did not realize that sand would not be the best de-skidding element.

I understood that one company tried 68 valve designs before deciding on one that would release the de-skidding elements successfully.

Ends An Old Problem
It has been a long time reaching for fan belts looks like the answer to a problem that has puzzled the trade as well as the public. I've told you several times how belts develop a "glaze" and how this slick surface causes the belt to slip and to squeak annoyingly. I warned against oiling the belt or applying soap, and said that sometimes the glaze could be checked by roughing up the belt edges with a dull tool such as the blade of a screwdriver. Now however, there is a special dressing for belts. Quite aside from the elimination of the squeaking the dressing helps prolong belt life.

Picked Up En Route
One reason for the popularity of wire wheel discs as well as wire wheels on sports cars is that the trend is back to the cut-away fender without fender skirts. It fits into the general trend of more prominence for functional parts. I knew that sometime it would happen that I'd receive a reader inquiry signed by a Mr. Dobbin. A few motorists realize that thawing a frozen door or luggage compartment lock can be hastened by heating the key with a match or a cigarette lighter. The steepest incline railway is said to be found not in the Alps or the Andes, but on Mount Beacon along the Hudson River in New York State.

Mechanic Joe Speaking:
"Usually the more complete car trouble is the easier it is to diagnose and the less cost is involved in repairing it. Dim headlights may call for a lot of checking, and possibly service on the generator, or replacement of the battery or regulator. But if all the lights fail, and the engine won't crank, the trouble is likely to be merely a dead battery or a break in the battery cable. "I would much rather have a case where the brake pedal goes to the floor than to fuss with a car that has a spongy pedal or brakes that work normally one time and erratically another. There's simplicity in complete failures and owners who run across this sort of thing should not feel that they are up against additional delay and expense. It may work out just the other way."

Every now and again motordom comes up with a new word that covers a lot of territory. You may not have heard it before but "skidache" is the newest. It is that fear that so many people have of skidding in winter driving. Like all fears it is based on ignorance. Drivers who test the brakes and frequently check road surface conditions do not fear skidding because they take necessary precautions against it. They know that conditions change frequently, so make allowances accordingly. By eliminating the unknown quantity they are prepared with suitable safeguards against what may happen. Skidaches are really borrowed trouble.

Note On Cleaning
When using anything in the way of a solvent to clean out the carburetor it is important to choke the engine a number of times in order to force the solvent through all the passages. This can be done by merely placing a block of wood over the air intake of the carburetor. During this process the air cleaner is completely removed. It is a good idea, too, to clean off the outside of the carburetor. An advantage of this is that a cleaned unit will more easily show up leakage of fuel. After a cleaning of the carburetor give the car a good workout on the open road. Some of the solvents for cleaning carburetors can also be put into the gas tank to take out moisture and to clean the lines.

Leads To Poor Start
How you drive the car at night may have everything to do with whether you'll have trouble with it the next day. This sounds a bit on the mysterious side but if the car is driven at daytime speeds at night the battery will be discharging. That may result in complete starting failure the next morning. For a better start, drive so that the ammeter shows charge, or at most the least discharge, at night. The most efficient night speed, so far as the battery goes, varies for different cars and variations in their condition, but it is likely to be about 35 mph.

Test Gives The Answer
How to tell if the engine is due for a valve job can be determined by vacuum readings and quite simply by using a compression gauge. In my new book, "Car Care," I have explained how to decide whether low compression is due to ring or to valve leakage. First make a compression test of each cylinder and note the readings. Then pour a little engine oil into each cylinder and test again. All the oil does is to seal the rings temporarily. One precaution is to avoid oiling the valve seats. Don't squirt the oil in; but feed it into the cylinders through the spark plug holes with a spoon. You want the oil to get down around the rings.

"Being confused regarding one-way streets is largely a matter of not being too observing. If cars are parked on both sides, but all headed toward you, the street is obviously one you must not enter. If there is parking on one side only, but if there are "no parking" signs on the other side, you can enter. If there are no cars at all, do not enter if there are no "no parking" signs facing you. Where there is a "no left turn" sign on the traffic signal at an intersection the chances are that a left turn would land you into a one-way street the wrong way. In some cities alternate streets are one-way.

What's Your Trouble?
Q. I am enclosing a list of the things that have been looked over in an effort to check high oil consumption. Is there anything we have overlooked? K. L. H.
A. How about leaky intake valve guides?
Q. Is a wheel apt to lock more easily when brakes are applied, if the tread is very good or very poor? Wm. L. K.
A. A bald tire will lock up more quickly.
Q. On rough roads there is a decided rattle in the rear of my car. There is nothing loose in the luggage compartment. The noise is heavy enough to suggest a loose spring, but the clips seem tight enough. F. B. McM.

A. One of the rear shock absorbers may be loose on the frame. Check the shocks for fluid leakage, too.
Q. There seems to be noise in the universal joints, but I do not see how they can be worn so soon. K. K. V.
A. Check the engine mountings. Looseness here is often mistaken for wear on the universals.
Q. I have just come into possession of a car with a semi-automatic shift. It has a clutch pedal. Just when should I use the clutch? J. H.
A. The clutch must be used to get into reverse, the lower forward speed range or the higher speed range when starting, or when shifting between these gears. Shifts between the first and second and the first and second of the higher range do not require clutch operation. Normally after starting you do not use the clutch for forward speed driving, simply leaving the car in high speed range. Shift "up" by releasing the accelerator pedal until the transmission clicks to indicate it has shifted, shift "down" for hills or passing cars by kicking way down on the accelerator pedal.
Q. There is a peculiar rattle in the rear of my car. It is very annoying and is sometimes heard when the car isn't running over a rough road. I have even heard it backing out of the garage. F. K. J.
A. This sounds to be like shaking of the tail pipe. Try moving and re-tightening the tail pipe hangers, or replacing them.
Q. The steering gear of my car has been adjusted too tight. Does this do any damage? W. K. Jr.
A. It will wear rapidly if too tight.
Q. What can be done to stop a carburetor from flooding? I have checked a half dozen possible causes. S. McB.
A. There are about three times this number of causes, so take a look at some of the other possibilities such as trouble with the choke, plugged bleeder holes, too high fuel pump pressure or the float rubbing against the bowl wall.
Mr. Russell will answer questions regarding the safe care and operation of your car. Just address him care at 254 Fern St., West Hartford 7, Conn., and enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope for a personal reply. There is no charge.

Will Not Hamper Probe Of "Voice"
WASHINGTON (AP)—Senators investigating the Voice of America kept State Department officials on the carpet today with demands for guarantees against any policies hampering the probe.
One clash between the Republican-led committee and the new Republican administration of the State Department apparently ended yesterday in a senatorial victory. Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, new under secretary of state, promised "full co-operation."
McCarthy charged yesterday that the State Department was trying to "hamstring" his inquiries.

The liberal statesman and political writer served as Premier in 1919 and again in 1920. He spent his last years in a modest Rome apartment which he shared with his two sisters.

A favorite amusement of the Indians was to dress some of their number in the clothes of their female captives. On this evening one Indian put on Mrs. Bard's gown. While this game was in progress Richard Bard was sent to the spring near the camp for water. Just as he reached his destination Mrs. Bard began to take part in the Indians' fun and succeeded in holding their attention so that for the time, they forgot their captive at the spring. These few precious moments gave him the necessary opportunity to slip into the deep forest unobserved.

His escape was soon discovered, and a search for him went on for two days, without success. At the end of that time they again moved westward and northward, travelling down Stoney Creek to the Allegheny River, and thence to Fort Duquesne. They remained at the fort only one night, and then continued on their way. Their next stop was at a point on the Beaver River, where the brutal torturing and murder of McManing was enacted before Mrs. Bard's horrified eyes.

Given To 2 Braves

At this point the two boys and the little girl, Hannah McBride, were left, and Mrs. Bard was sent to another Indian town to be adopted into an Indian family. She did not again see the three children until all had regained their freedom. Mrs. Bard was given to two braves to take the place of a deceased sister, which was a practice among the Indians, and one which often saved the lives of captives. About a month later her two new "brothers" decided to go to the headwaters of the Susquehanna. This was a painful journey as she had not yet recovered from the rigors of the journey over the mountains from her Adams County home.

One of the braves gave her a horse and she was able to begin the journey in comparative comfort, but they had not gone far when one of the pack horses died, and she had to give up her mount to take its place. When they arrived at their destination, having now travelled in all upwards of 500 miles since her capture, she became seriously ill. After about two months she began to recover, but it was a long time before she had completely regained her health and strength.

Soon after her recovery Mrs. Bard met another captive, a woman whom she had previously known, who had taken an Indian husband, and had borne him a child. From her Mrs. Bard learned that as soon as captured women learned to speak the Indian language they were obliged to accept Indian husbands, with death as the only alternative. Bearing this in mind, she never learned to speak the language of her captors.

Searches For Wife

Meanwhile, Richard Bard had returned to his father's home on Marsh Creek, and after he recovered from the effects of his own captivity, began the search for his wife. In the autumn of 1758, after the capture of Fort Duquesne by General Forbes and building of Fort Pitt, Bard went there. He was there when Forbes tried to make a treaty with the neighboring Indians. In the Indian camp on the opposite side of the river from the fort were a number of Delaware. Some of these, Bard felt sure, had taken part in the raid on his home. He made himself known to them, but they pretended not to remember. Upon his insistence that he knew them, they admitted their part in the raid, but denied any knowledge of Mrs. Bard's presence.

They promised, however, to have some information for him when he returned the next day. As he was returning to the fort, he was overtaken by a young white man who had been taken by the Indians when a child. He advised Bard not to return the next day for the Indians had decided to kill him because he had himself once escaped from them. Bard took advice and did not return.

He returned home discouraged, but would not give up his search, and soon after came again to Fort Pitt, where he wrote a letter to his wife, and asked the Indians to get it to her. In it he offered her relatives by adoption 40 pounds for her release. He never received an answer, and after trying in vain to get an Indian to steal her for a reward, he determined to rescue her for himself.

Ransoms His Wife

By this time in some way he had discovered the location of the Indian town in which she was held, and his plans were made accordingly. First he went to the present Sunbury on the Susquehanna, and thence to Big Cherry Trees, where he started along an Indian path that led to the town in question. He had not gone far when he met a party of Indians who were bringing Mrs. Bard to the town in order to claim the reward.

Bard promised to pay the 40 pounds when they reached Sunbury, but the savages refused to enter Sunbury, fearing capture themselves. Bard then offered to stay with them as hostage while Mrs. Bard went to the town with an order for the money. This offer put the Indians in good spirits and they decided to go on with the ransom, where the ransom was paid.

This was in September, 1760, so Katherine Bard was now free after a captivity of two years and five months. It is assumed that the Bards returned to their former home, but it is all too evident that that place held too many bitter memories for them. In 1764 they are known to have been living near what is now the village Williamson, in Franklin County, on the East Conococheague.

Richard Bard was born on February 8, 1736, at the father's plantation just a little north of the present Virginia Mills, on Mud Creek, the main tributary of Middle Creek. The father built a mill at that point, probably the first to supply that area. Richard learned the trade as miller, and shortly after his marriage to Katherine Poe, his father conveyed the tract, containing 121 acres, to him. This was known as the "Mill Place." Katherine Poe was born on June 3, 1737. It was at the "Mill Place" that the attack and capture of the Bards took place.

Indians Kill Son

Richard and Katherine Bard had one son, born September 27, 1757, and killed by the Indians shortly after the family was captured. After Mrs. Bard's return from captivity, four sons and six daughters were born to the couple. The first of these, Isaac, was born in Franklin County in February, 1762, and the last, Martha, was born at the same place in November, 1778.

During the War for Independence Richard Bard was a member of Captain Joseph Culbertson's company, Col. Arthur Buchanan's battalion of the Fifth Class, Cumberland County Militia. The part of the present day Franklin County in which the Bards lived was then a part of Cumberland County. He was with his company when, under the call of July 28, 1777, they served in the campaign around Philadelphia. Afterwards he served in the Rangers Company of Captain Walter McKinnie on the western frontier.

Richard Bard died on February 22, 1799, aged 63 years and 14 days. Katherine Bard died on August 31, 1811, aged 74 years, two months and 28 days. It seems that after the terror and suffering of their younger days, the Bards settled down to a happy and useful family life. Evidently their lives were not greatly shortened by

A tourist is merely a vagabond with a fat pocketbook.

How's That Invention?

How long does it take an idea to reach reality? Why do people get good ideas and not follow them through? Is there anything new under the sun?

That's what many are asking now that many motorists are using deskidder devices to sprinkle abrasives ahead of the rear wheels. Every motorist seems to have thought of the idea at one time or another. I remember a woman driver who kept prodding me to develop the idea way back in 1930. Then, as now, the chief difficulty was making the system simple yet reliable. Too many people thought it was just necessary to pull a wire and let a little sand drop down. They did not know that the device would be impractical if it clogged. They did not foresee the need for designs that would fit different shapes of luggage compartments. And they did not realize that sand would not be the best de-skidding element.

I understand that one company tried 68 valve designs before deciding on one that would release the de-skidding elements successfully.

Ends An Old Problem

It has been a long time reaching motorbom but the new dressing for fan belts looks like the answer to a problem that has puzzled the trade as well as the public. I've told you several times how belts develop a "glaze" and how this slick surface causes the belt to slip and to squeak annoyingly. I warned against oiling the belt or applying soap, and said that sometimes the glaze could be checked by roughing up the belt edges with a dull tool such as the blade of a screwdriver. Now however, there is a special dressing for belts. Quite aside from the elimination of the squeaking the dressing helps prolong belt life.

Picked Up En Route

One reason for the popularity of wire wheel discs as well as wire wheels on sports cars is that the trend is back to the cut-away fender without fender skirts. It fits into the general trend of more prominence for functional parts. I knew that sometime it would happen that I'd receive a reader inquiry signed by a Mr. Dobbin. A few motorists realize that thawing a frozen door or luggage compartment lock can be hastened by heating the key with a match or a cigarette lighter. The steepest incline railway is said to be found, not in the Alps or the Andes, but on Mount Beacon along the Hudson River in New York State.

Mechanic Joe Speaking: "Usually the more complete car trouble is the easier it is to diagnose and the less cost is involved in repairing it. Dim headlights may call for a lot of checking, and possibly service on the generator, or replacement of the battery or regulator. But if all the lights fail, and the engine won't crank, the trouble is likely to be merely a dead battery or a break in the battery cable."

"I would much rather have a case where the brake pedal goes to the floor than to fuss with a car that has a spongy pedal or brakes that work normally one time and erratically another. There's simplicity in complete failures and owners who run across this sort of thing should not feel that they are up against additional delay and expense. It may work out just the other way."

their earlier experiences. From such strong stuff was America made.

Every now and again motordom comes up with a new word that covers a lot of territory. You may not have heard it before but "skidache" is the newest. It is that fear that so many people have of skidding in winter driving. Like all fears it is based on ignorance. Drivers who test the brakes and frequently check road surface conditions do not fear skidding because they take necessary precautions against it. They know that conditions change frequently, so make allowances accordingly. By eliminating the unknown quantity they are prepared with suitable safeguards against what may happen. Skidaches are really borrowed trouble.

Note On Cleaning

When using anything in the way of a solvent to clean out the carburetor it is important to choke the engine a number of times in order to force the solvent through all the passages. This can be done by merely placing a block of wood over the air intake of the carburetor. During this process the air cleaner is completely removed.

It is a good idea, too, to clean off the outside of the carburetor. One advantage of this is that a cleaned unit will more easily show up leakage of fuel. After a cleaning of the carburetor give the car a good workout on the open road. Some of the solvents for cleaning carburetors can also be put into the gas tank to take out moisture and to clean the lines.

Leads To Poor Start

How you drive the car at night may have everything to do with whether you'll have trouble with it the next day. This sounds a bit on the mysterious side but if the car is driven at daytime speeds at night the battery will be discharging. That may result in complete starting failure the next morning. For a better start, drive so that the ammeter shows charge, or at most the least discharge, at night. The most efficient night speed, so far as the battery goes, varies for different cars and variations in their condition, but it is likely to be about 35 mph.

Test Gives The Answer

How to tell if the engine is due for a valve job can be determined by vacuum readings and quite simply by using a compression gauge. In my new book, "Car Care," I have explained how to decide whether low compression is due to ring or to valve leakage. First make a compression test of each cylinder and note the readings. Then pour a little engine oil into each cylinder and test again. All the oil does is to seal the rings temporarily. One precaution is to avoid oiling the valve seats. Don't squirt the oil in, but feed it into the cylinders through the spark plug holes with a spoon. You want the oil to get down around the rings.

Being confused regarding one-way streets is largely a matter of not being too observing. If cars are parked on both sides, but all headed toward you, the street is obviously one you must not enter. If there is parking on one side only, but if there are "no parking" signs on the other side, you can enter. If there are no cars at all, do not enter if there are no "no parking" signs facing you. Where there is a "no left turn" sign on the traffic signal at an intersection the chances are that a left turn would land you in to a one-way street the wrong way. In some cities alternate streets are one-way.

What's Your Trouble?

Q. I am enclosing a list of the things that have been looked over in an effort to check high oil consumption. Is there anything we have overlooked? K. L. M.

A. How about leaky intake valve guides?

Q. Is a wheel apt to lock more easily, when brakes are applied, if the tread is very good or very poor? Wm. L. K.

A. A bald tire will lock up more quickly.

Q. On rough roads there is a decided rattle in the rear of my car. There is nothing loose in the luggage compartment. The noise is heavy enough to suggest a loose spring, but the clips seem tight enough. F. B. McM.

A. One of the rear shock absorbers may be loose on the frame. Check the shocks for fluid leakage, too.

Q. There seems to be noise in the universal joints, but I do not see how they can be worn so soon. K. K. V.

A. Check the engine mountings. Looseness here is often mistaken for wear on the universals.

Q. I have just come into possession of a car with a semi-automatic shift. It has a clutch pedal. Just when should I use the clutch? J. H.

A. The clutch must be used to get into reverse, the lower forward speed range or the higher speed range when starting, or when shifting between these gears. Shifts between the first and second and the first and second of the higher range do not require clutch operation. Normally after starting you do not use the clutch for forward speed driving, simply leaving the car in high speed range. Shift "up" by releasing the accelerator pedal until the transmission clicks to indicate it has shifted, shift "down" for hills or passing cars by kicking way down on the accelerator pedal.

Q. There is a peculiar rattle in the rear of my car. It is very annoying and is sometimes heard when the car isn't running over a rough road. I have even heard it backing out of the garage. F. K. J.

A. This sounds to be like shaking of the tail pipe. Try moving, and re-tightening the tail pipe hangers, or replacing them.

Q. The steering gear of my car has been adjusted too tight. Does this do any damage? W. K. Jr.

A. It will wear rapidly if too tight.

Q. What can be done to stop a carburetor from flooding? I have checked a half dozen possible causes. S. MCB.

A. There are about three times this number of causes, so take a look at some of the other possibilities such as trouble with the choke, plugged bleeder holes, too high fuel pump pressure or the float rubbing against the bowl wall.

Will Not Hamper Probe Of "Voice"

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senators investigating the Voice of America kept State Department officials on the carpet today with demands for guarantees against any policies hampering the probe.

One clash between the Republican-led committee and the new Republican administration of the State Department apparently ended yesterday in a senatorial victory. Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, new under secretary of state, promised "full co-operation."

McCarthy charged yesterday that the State Department was trying to "hamstring" his inquiries.

Ex-Italian Premier Dies Suddenly At 84

SEE QUICK OK ON INDICTMENT OF REDS' MASS "SUBJUGATION"

WASHINGTON (AP)—Quick congressional approval was forecast today for President Eisenhower's indictment of Russia's mass "subjugation of free peoples" through perversion of World War II agreements.

A resolution, sponsored by Eisenhower and awaiting on Capitol Hill since he promised it in his Feb. 2 State of the Union message, was made public yesterday by the President.

It rejects the Soviet Union's interpretation of the understandings—presumably those made at Yalta—as a license for the subjugation of free peoples. It proclaims a hope for ultimate self-government behind the Iron Curtain in line "with the pledge of the Atlantic Charter."

Few Challenges

The resolution was not as strong as some Republicans had wanted, but few seemed inclined to challenge the President on the issue.

Most Democrats were ready to go along with it, too. It did not criticize the administration of Democrats Franklin D. Roosevelt or Harry S. Truman, nor did it repudiate agreements made at Yalta or elsewhere during those administrations.

Democrats chuckled privately, too, over the Republican President's acceptance of the principles of the Atlantic Charter, authored by Roosevelt with British Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

The Atlantic Charter, actually a joint declaration of the two leaders, was composed of notes they agreed upon aboard ship in the Atlantic Ocean in August, 1941.

Look Toward Indochina

They recognized, among other things, the rights of all peoples to choose their own governments and agreed on restoration of self-government for those who had lost it. The charter was never drafted as a formal document and had no legal force, although it caught on as a declaration of the West's principles.

While Senate Majority Leader Taft of Ohio arranged to handle the Eisenhower resolution in the Senate, most congressmen turned their thoughts to the apparently increasingly critical situation in Indochina. France is carrying the Allies' fight against Communism forces there.

Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont.), a member of the foreign relations committee, called for heavy new shipments of military equipment to that area. He caused a flurry by asserting he understood a top Russian general and a top Soviet diplomat, as well as Russian officers, had been operating in China and Indochina.

The State Department and the French Embassy said they had no word of the presence of such Russian officials in Indochina.

Agreements Violated

The Eisenhower resolution asserts that the Soviets violated "the clear intent" of war-time agreements and understandings and subjected whole nations to "totalitarian imperialism."

It says the people of the United States will never countenance such enslavement and calls on Congress to join in:

1. Rejecting any interpretations of any international agreements or understandings of World War II "which have been perverted to bring about the subjugation of free peoples."

2. Proclaiming the hope that the captives of Soviet despotism "shall again enjoy the right of self-determination which will sustain the peace; that they shall have again the right to choose the form of government under which they will live; and that sovereign rights of self-government shall be restored to them all in accordance with the pledge of the Atlantic Charter."

Arrest Student In Stolen Taxicab

DOYLESTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Edgar A. Ostrander, 20, a Lehigh University sophomore, was arrested Wednesday on charges of drunk driving, hit-run and car theft after a nine-mile police chase.

State police said the arrest occurred two miles north of Quakertown. Ostrander was driving a stolen taxicab, police said, and was chased at speeds up to 80 miles an hour before he was stopped.

Ostrander twice bumped the fenders of the police car as it sought to stop the taxi, state police said.

THE NATIONAL GUARD, which has made vital contributions to this country in both peace and war, is the subject of the first U. S. commemorative stamp for 1953. It will be placed on first day sale at Washington, D. C., on Feb. 23, 1953.

The central design depicts a typical National Guardsman ready for action. In the left background is an amphibious landing with air cover. The Guard's traditional peacetime role of protecting life and property in time of local disaster is shown in the right background.

Across the top of the stamp appears the wording, "The National Guard of the U. S. in War. In Peace." At the bottom, in an ornamental ribbon, is "The Oldest Military Organization in the U. S."

A three-cent stamp, it is blue. The National Guard is more than 300 years old—older than the U. S. itself. The militia units from which the Guard stems go back to the early 17th century with an unbroken history. The oldest Guard unit is the 182nd Infantry Regiment of Mass., organized as the Middlesex County militia regiment in 1636.

The name "National Guard" was first used in 1824 when New York outfits took the title to honor Lafayette, commander of the famed "Garde Nationale" in France.

Stamp collectors desiring first day cancellations of this stamp may send addressed envelopes to the Postmaster at Washington, D. C., with money order remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed. The outside envelope to the Postmaster should be endorsed "First Day Covers."

WOULD REQUIRE ROAD BUDGET OF HIGHWAY DEPT.

HARRISBURG (AP)—A move was underway in the Legislature today to require the State Highways Department to spell out to the lawmakers its plans for road construction.

Rep. W. Stuart Helm (R—Armstrong) told a newsmen he would press for passage of his bill to force the department to submit a detailed budget on how it plans to spend 340 million dollars in the next biennium.

"As it stands now, the Highways Department has a blank check to spend the money as it pleases," he said. "Why shouldn't the Highways Department, like all others in the state government, submit a budget to the General Assembly?"

Packs A Wallop

The Helm bill provision is only 24 words long but it could change the entire method of financing the commonwealth's 100-million-dollar-a-year road construction project. The measure focuses the resentment of some rural lawmakers that the department is spending too much money on Philadelphia and Pittsburgh projects such as the Penn-Lincoln Parkway and the Schuylkill Expressway.

Under the Helm measure, the major portion of Highways Department appropriations would be earmarked by the Legislature instead of leaving expenditures to the discretion of the department secretary.

Would Hamstring Program

A department spokesman, who declined quotation by name, said passage of the bill would hamstring its planning program.

"Old man weather enters into this," he said. "You may map out a series of projects for a specific period and find that even a month's rainy weather would push the completion date into the winter months. That means, of course, postponement of that project until spring weather."

Helm said his idea would be for the department to give to the lawmakers a list of projects contemplated in the next biennium. The legislature then would appropriate the money for these projects.

Seldom Earmark

"This would put back into the hands of the Legislature the power of spending that never should have been relinquished in the first place," said the lawmaker.

The Legislature seldom earmarks money for specific projects. In recent years, these projects involved construction of a bridge across the Allegheny River between Tarentum and New Kensington and a span across the Susquehanna River between Harrisburg and the West Shore.

The book tells the story of the creation of a British Memorial to the men and women of the United States Forces stationed in Britain or operating from British bases who gave their lives in the Second World War.

In the eastern apex of war-scarred St. Paul's Cathedral, in the heart of the City of London, stood the Jesus Chapel, which was wrecked in the blitz of 1941.

Where the Jesus Chapel once stood a new shrine is now taking shape, a shrine whose stained-glass windows still incorporate the insignia of the forty-eight States of the American Union.

The American Memorial Chapel in St. Paul's, a great cathedral of Sir Christopher Wren which is the Parish Church of the British Commonwealth of Nations, commemorates the 28,000 Americans of all services who lost their lives while based upon Britain during the war. It represents a national tribute, an act commemorating American service and sacrifice, in the common defense of the world's liberty, by millions of ordinary men, women and children in Britain, headed by their King, King George VI, who took the closest personal interest in the American Memorial Chapel, lived to see only the beginning of the work.

The book records the circumstances in which this tribute by the people of Britain as a whole was conceived and planned. It is introduced by an account of the war-time life and custom of the American soldier, sailor and airman among the British people, to which is added the text of General Eisenhower's speech at Gullhall, a month after VE Day, when he was elected an honorary freeman of the City of London. It goes on to describe the origin and progress of the scheme of the American Memorial Chapel and the service of dedication in St. Paul's, on Independence Day, 1951, of the Roll of Honour which was presented by General Eisenhower on behalf of the American people.

The building of the American Memorial Chapel was begun in February, 1951, and will be completed, it is hoped, in 1954 or 1955. The Roll of Honour will rest in the Chapel, where it will form an integral part of a sanctuary which must surely become a place of American pilgrimage.

NUMBING COLD TUMBLES AFTER BAD SNOWSTORM

By The Associated Press
Numbing cold descended today upon a vast section of the nation's northern midlands in the wake of the winter's worst snowstorm.

Temperatures of zero to 15 below were forecast for tonight in at least six of the 11 states which have felt in varying degrees the fury of the four-day blizzard.

Diminishing winds permitted residents of the storm area, particularly in deeply snow-blanketed portions of South Dakota, Nebraska, and Minnesota, to dig out of drifts that stalled highway and plane travel and in many communities forced the closing of schools and businesses.

But the winds, trailing the re-

FIND PARKING METERS GOOD MONEY SOURCE

HARRISBURG (AP)—Parking meters are turning into one of the major sources of non-tax revenue for many communities in Pennsylvania, the Department of Internal Affairs said today.

The number of meters in the commonwealth has doubled since the end of World War II and the revenue has almost tripled, the Bureau of Municipal Affairs reports.

Miss Thelma J. Snowalter, research assistant in the bureau, said that as of last Oct. 1, 1953 Pennsylvania towns were operating 1,374 for 1953. This includes cities, boroughs and first class townships with 5,600 population and over.

Only One Municipality reported the removal of a number of meters, Miss Snowalter added.

The number of parking meters per municipality included in the bureau's study ranged from 63 in the Borough of Nazareth to 8,300 in the City of Philadelphia.

Latest figures available on collection of parking meter fees throughout the state total $3,762,374 for 1953. This includes cities, boroughs and first class townships with 5,600 population and over.

Hanover Rate Best

Kittanning had the highest per capita receipts, standing at $4.53. Stroudsburg and Doylestown were right behind with $4.24 and $4.22, respectively. Lowest per capita collection was Philadelphia with 11 cents.

Philadelphia, however, reported the highest collection in the state—$237,585.

Receipts per meter placed Hanover in the top spot with $106.79 as the average receipt per meter for 1953. Kane realized only $10.71 per meter.

ceding storm, now moving into Canada at the head of Lake Superior, were still 30 miles an hour or more—strong enough to intensify the suddenly fallen temperatures. The Weather Bureau reported gusts of 57 miles an hour were recorded during the height of the storm over Nebraska, Iowa, South Dakota and Minnesota.

Snow Hails Business

The wind scoured the new falls of snow, ranging up to 15 inches at Huron, S. D., and 12 at St. Cloud, Minn., into formidable drifts that kept school children home, forced businesses to close for lack of customers, and even buried highways so that snowplow crews couldn't find them.

Similar discomforts were felt in Wyoming and Colorado a day earlier, where the storm began developing Wednesday. It was in those states the only storm deaths—nine—were reported. Five were the result of traffic accidents and four, all in Denver, attributed to over-exertion in the snow.

In the Deep South, tornadoes lashed, three states leaving one person dead, 10 injured, and a mounting list of homeless.

The heaviest toll was in Alabama where four communities in the northwest were lashed by destructive storms yesterday. Mississippi and Louisiana felt the fury in lesser degree.

SEE QUICK OK ON INDICTMENT OF REDS' MASS "SUBJUGATION"

WASHINGTON (P)—Quick congressional approval was forecast today for President Eisenhower's indictment of Russia's mass "subjugation of free peoples" through perversion of World War II agreements.

A resolution, sponsored by Eisenhower and awaited on Capitol Hill since he promised it in his Feb. 2 State of the Union message, was made public yesterday by the President.

It rejects the Soviet Union's interpretation of the understandings—presumably those made at Yalta—as a license for the subjugation of free peoples. It proclaims a hope for ultimate self-government behind the Iron Curtain in line with the pledge of the Atlantic Charter.

Few Challenges

The resolution was not as strong as some Republicans had wanted, but few seemed inclined to challenge the President on the issue.

Most Democrats were ready to go along with it, too. It did not criticize the administration of Democrats Franklin D. Roosevelt or Harry S. Truman, nor did it repudiate agreements made at Yalta or elsewhere during those administrations.

Democrats chuckled privately, too, over the Republican President's acceptance of the principles of the Atlantic Charter, authored by Roosevelt with British Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

The Atlantic Charter, actually a joint declaration of the two leaders, was composed of notes they agreed upon aboard ship in the Atlantic Ocean in August, 1941.

Look Toward Indochina

They recognized, among other things, the rights of all peoples to choose their own governments and agreed on restoration of self-government for those who had lost it. The charter was never drafted as a formal document and had no legal force, although it caught on as a declaration of the West's principles.

While Senate Majority Leader Taft of Ohio arranged to handle the Eisenhower resolution in the Senate, most congressmen turned their thoughts to the apparently increasingly critical situation in Indochina. France is carrying the Allies' fight against Communist forces there.

Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont.), a member of the foreign relations committee, called for heavy new shipments of military equipment to that area. He caused a flurry by asserting he understood a top Russian general and a top Soviet diplomat, as well as Russian officers, had been operating in China and Indochina.

The State Department and the French Embassy said they had no word of the presence of such Russian officials in Indochina.

Agreements Violated

The Eisenhower resolution asserts that the Soviets violated "the clear intent" of war-time agreements and understandings and subjected whole nations to "totalitarian imperialism."

It says the people of the United States will never countenance such enslavement and calls on Congress to join in:

1. Rejecting any interpretations of any international agreements or understandings of World War II "which have been perverted to bring about the subjugation of free peoples."

2. Proclaiming the hope that the captives of Soviet despotism "shall again enjoy the right of self-determination which will sustain the peace; that they shall have again the right to choose the form of government under which they will live, and that sovereign rights of self-government shall be restored to them all in accordance with the pledge of the Atlantic Charter."

The name or title of the unit in which he or she served.

The writer's complete address and the relationship to the dead person.

Address the letter or card to: Colonel the Hon. J. J. Astor, The Times, London, Inc., 45 East 51st Street, New York 22, N. Y.

This information will be sent to The London Times and a copy of the book will then be forwarded direct, free of all cost, to the applicant.

The book tells the story of the creation of a British Memorial to the men and women of the United States Forces stationed in Britain or operating from British bases who gave their lives in the Second World War.

The name of the individual man or woman among the 28,000 is inscribed in gold letters on the front cover of each copy.

The book was made possible by The Times, Printing House Square, London, and the Dulverton Trust.

In the eastern apex of war-scarred St. Paul's Cathedral, in the heart of the City of London, stood the Jesus Chapel, which was wrecked in the blitz of 1941.

Where the Jesus Chapel once stood a new shrine is now taking shape, a shrine whose stained-glass windows still incorporate the insignia of the forty-eight States of the American Union. The American Memorial Chapel in St. Paul's, a great cathedral of Sir Christopher Wren which is the Parish Church of the British Commonwealth of Nations, commemorates the 28,000 Americans of all services who lost their lives while based upon Britain during the war. It represents a national tribute, an act commemorating American service and sacrifice, in the common defense of the world's liberty, by millions of ordinary men, women and children in Britain, headed by their King, King George VI, who took the closest personal interest in the American Memorial Chapel, lived to see only the beginning of the work.

The book records the circumstances in which this tribute by the people of Britain as a whole was conceived and planned. It is introduced by an account of the war-time life and custom of the American soldier, sailor and airman among the British people, to which is added the text of General Eisenhower's speech at Guildhall, a month after VE Day, when he was elected an honorary freeman of the City of London. It goes on to describe the origin and progress of the scheme of the American Memorial Chapel and the service of dedication in St. Paul's, on Independence Day, 1951, of the Roll of Honour which was presented by General Eisenhower on behalf of the American people.

The building of the American Memorial Chapel was begun in February, 1951, and will be completed, it is hoped, in 1954 or 1955. The Roll of Honour will rest in the Chapel, where it will form an integral part of a sanctuary which must surely become a place of American pilgrimage.

NUMBING COLD TUMBLES AFTER BAD SNOWSTORM

By The Associated Press

Numbing cold descended today upon a vast section of the nation's northern midlands in the wake of the winter's worst snowstorm.

Temperatures of zero to 15 below were forecast for tonight in at least six of the 11 states which have felt in varying degrees the fury of the four-day blizzard.

Diminishing winds permitted residents of the storm area, particularly in deeply snow-blanketed portions of South Dakota, Nebraska, and Minnesota, to dig out of drifts that stalled highway and plane travel and in many communities forced the closing of schools and businesses.

But the winds trailing the re-

FIND PARKING METERS GOOD MONEY SOURCE

HARRISBURG (P)—Parking meters are turning into one of the major sources of non-tax revenue for many communities in Pennsylvania, the Department of Internal Affairs said today.

The number of meters in the commonwealth has doubled since the end of World War II and the revenue has almost tripled, the Bureau of Municipal Affairs reports.

Miss Thelma J. Snowalter, research assistant in the bureau, said that as of last Oct. 1, 163 Pennsylvania townships were operating some cities, boroughs and first some 66,268 meters.

Phila. Has Most Only one municipality reported the removal of a number of meters, Miss Snowalter added.

The number of parking meters per municipality included in the bureau's study ranged from 63 in the Borough of Nanty Glo to 8,300 in the City of Philadelphia.

Latest figures available on collection of parking meter fees throughout the state total $3,762,374 for 1951. This includes cities, boroughs and first class townships with 5,000 population and over.

Hanover Rate Best Kittanning had the highest per capita receipts, standing at $4.53. Stroudsburg and Doylestown were right behind with $4.24 and $4.22, respectively. Lowest per capita collection was Philadelphia with 11 cents.

Philadelphia, however, reported the highest collection in the state—$237,588.

Receipts per meter placed Hanover in the top spot with $108.70 as the average receipt per meter for 1951. Kane realized only $10.71 per meter.

ceding storm, now moving into Canada at the head of Lake Superior, were still 30 miles an hour or more—strong enough to intensify the suddenly fallen temperatures. The Weather Bureau reported gusts of 57 miles an hour were recorded during the height of the storm over Nebraska, Iowa, South Dakota and Minnesota.

Snow Halts Business The wind scoured the new falls of snow, ranging up to 15 inches at Huron, S. D., and 12 at St. Cloud, Minn., into formidable drifts that kept school children home, forced businesses to close for lack of customers, and even buried highways so that snowplow crews couldn't find them.

Similar discomforts were felt in Wyoming and Colorado a day earlier, where the storm began developing Wednesday. It was in those states the only storm deaths—nine—were reported. Five were the result of traffic accidents and four, all in Denver, attributed to over-exertion in the snow.

In the Deep South, tornadoes lashed three states leaving one person dead, 10 injured, and a mounting list of homeless.

The heaviest toll was in Alabama where four communities in the northwest were lashed by destructive storms yesterday. Mississippi and Louisiana felt the fury in lesser degree.

HARRISBURG (P)—The State selective service headquarters on Thursday announced Pennsylvania's draft quota for April as 4,081, a decrease from the March quota of 6,000.

Littlestown TEN MEN MADE LION MONARCHS

John D. Basehoar, president of the Littlestown Lions Club, presented ten-year-old "Old Monarch Chevrolets" to ten members of the club at the second February meeting on Thursday evening at Banker's Restaurant. Those who received the awards were John R. Bloom, Dr. Samuel Bucke, Worthy A. Crabbs, John F. Feesser Sr., Irvin R. Kindig, Harry J. Kowitz, Wilbur A. Mackley, Holman L. Sell, Amos L. Spangler and Ralph L. Staley.

The evening's entertainment consisted of a film entitled "The Story of a Main Street Merchant," shown through the courtesy of the J. C. Penny Company and was secured through the Health and Welfare Committee composed of Stanley D. Bowersox, James M. Smith and Walter C. Myers. One visiting Lion was in attendance, J. H. Ommert, of the Taneytown club. Charles E. Tressler was a guest.

A meeting of the club directors followed the regular session when the following donations were voted: $5 to the Heart Fund; $10 to the Red Cross; $5 to the Adams County Free Library Association; $25 for 25 new school patrol flags; $10 to the Amsterdam-Netherlands Lions Club for relief work in flooded areas. The sum of $4.75 was contributed to a stranded family for meals and transportation to Baltimore.

Plan Amateur Show

It was announced that Kenneth A. Keller, Glen Rock, governor of Lions District 14 C, will make his official visit to the local club at the next meeting on Thursday, March 5, at 7 p.m. Program arrangements for this meeting will be in charge of the Safety Committee, consisting of Sterling J. Wisotzky and George Traut. It was also announced that tickets are available from the secretary, Chester S. Byers, for the meeting of District 14 C Lions at the Yorktown Hotel in York on Tuesday, March 10, at 7 p.m. The speaker for the occasion will be S.

Jets Protect Big Bombers And Destroy 2 More MIGs

SEOUL (AP)—U. S. Sabre jets scored again on Russian-built MIGs in battles high over MIG Alley today while screening U. S. bombers pounding buildup and supply targets in North Korea.

The Fifth Air Force said two of the Red jets probably were destroyed and one damaged.

Jet fighter-bombers struck a Communist supply area north of Pyongyang, the apex tip of the old "Iron Triangle" on the Central Front. There were no reports of damage.

Two Red military bases near Pyongyang, Korean Communist capital, were hit by the heaviest B29 raid of the year. Eighteen Superforts dumped 180-tons of bombs in the Sopo section.

Night-flying light and medium bombers plastered a Red troop center and left it in charred ruins. The bombers also shot up 123 supply vehicles along North Korean roads, the Air Force said.

Smash Red Attack

On the ground, two Allied patrols intercepted and broke up an intended pre-dawn attack by 500 Chinese against an outpost at the base of T-Bone Hill on the Western Front.

Later today, tanks on the west central sector resumed their daily blasting of Communist bunkers, trenches and gun positions. The bunker-shoots began Jan. 10.

Carrier-based planes sprayed destruction along both Korean coasts on Friday. The Navy attackers blew up 29 railroad cars and heavily damaged a locomotive on the east coast north of Hungnam.

In its weekly summary, the Fifth Air Force reported one Sabre and two other Allied planes were lost up until Friday night. The jet was downed in an aerial dogfight, and the other two—an F80 Shooting Star and a propeller-driven Corsair fighter—were brought down by Red ground fire.

In the same period, the Air Force said, Sabre pilots destroyed 17 MIGs, probably destroyed four and damaged 18.

A. Dodge, Detroit, who is first international vice president.

At present the local Lions Club members are busy furthering arrangements for the annual amateur show to be held on Thursday, March 19, in the Littlestown High School auditorium. Contestants may register with Chester S. Byers at the State Bank or with Marvin F. Breighner at Marvin's Cut Rate Store. Valuable cash prizes are being offered in two age groups for the winners of the show.

List Traffic Arrests

Littlestown Chief of Police Melvin H. Swab has reported the following arrests made recently for motor code violations: William A. Price, Bedford; George Luther Braxton, Petersburg, Va.; Eugene Leslie Klupp, Baltimore; Kenneth Johnson, Everett; Aden Hawbaker, Chambersburg R. 5; John M. Hasler, York; William Charles Fordyce, Baltimore; and Lorraine Berwager Stem, Westminster.

The Junior Fellowship of Centenary Methodist Church will hold its weekly meeting on Monday evening at 6:30 o'clock in the church Sunday School room.

Events scheduled for the coming week at the Littlestown Junior Senior High School include the following: Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock special assembly featuring the Dill Brothers; Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, basketball league playoffs.

Eagles Women Meet

Routine business was conducted at the brief meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Fraternal Order of Eagles, Littlestown Aerie No. 2226, on Thursday evening at the Eagles Home, West King St. The president, Mrs. Mabel Ritts, presided. Mrs. Ruth Crouse, the treasurer, was also acting secretary. The guest package was contributed by Mrs. Helen Weaver and received by Mrs. Clara Jacoby. Mrs. Edna Olinger received the jackpot award. Refreshments were served to the group by Mrs. Ritts and Mrs. Jacoby. The next regular meeting will be held Wednesday, March 4, 8:30 p.m.

The Rev. William C. Karna, pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church, has announced that the installation of "The Common Service" will take place at the Sunday morning worship service, 10:15 o'clock, and he will explain the new liturgy. The February meeting of St. John's Church Council will be held on Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the church.

Since Washington's birthday falls on Sunday this year, the holiday will be observed on Monday. The Littlestown National Bank and the State Liquor Store will be closed all day. The local postoffice will offer no window service on Monday and there will be no regular mail deliveries. Mail will be received and dispatched as usual and only special deliveries and perishables will be taken to their destinations.

FBI CLERK TRAPS CHECK ARTIST

EL RENO, Okla., (AP)—A night clerk in the Federal Bureau of Investigation office, whose chief duty is sending out wanted circulars, today caused the arrest of one of the FBI's "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives" after recognizing him from a picture he had mailed to hundreds of officers.

Theodore Richard Byrd Jr., 27, termed one of the slickest hot check artists in the country, was arrested at 2 a. m. here at an all-night cafe, the FBI said today.

Robert L. Harvey, who works in the FBI office at Oklahoma City but lives here, called El Reno police after he saw Byrd eating at the cafe. Harvey is the son of El Reno Police Chief Lee Harvey.

D. A. Bryce, agent in charge of the Oklahoma FBI office, said that Byrd had passed more than $40,000 worth of hot checks in the past few months. He has gotten as much as $9,300 a day posing as a doctor or naval officer and asking banks to cash certified checks.

lar with judo as a combat veteran of the Second World War, told police later that he half-raised his arms — a position from which it is sometimes possible to disarm an assailant. The bandit, however, evidently knew the trick.

"Keep your hands down at your sides," he told Mearns.

Forced To Lie On Floor
As the manager reached the cage, where Mrs. Emma Ball, 42, a teller, was standing at the counter, the three forced Mearns and Mrs. Ball to lie on the floor in a corner.

"Don't move," he said, "I've got two more men outside."

He scooped the bills from a cash drawer and walked out of the bank. Mearns and Mrs. Ball were unable to see, from where they were lying, how he made his escape.

Mearns said the office was equipped with a system for discharging tear gas in the event of holdups but that he could not reach the release. Mrs. Ball was afraid to set off the gas for fear the bandit would shoot Mearns.

INCODEL HITS STATE INTEREST

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Interstate Commission on the Delaware River Basin says a Pennsylvania Water Resources Committee report is concerned only with the interests of Pennsylvania and fails to promote "the spirit of governmental cooperation."

Incode, which has won approval of three states—New York, New Jersey and Delaware—for a plan to develop a power and flood control project on the upper reaches of the Delaware River, claims it was unable to study the Pennsylvania committee's report properly because no underlying engineers' reports were made available.

The Water Resources Committee reported that Pennsylvania would not benefit by Incode's plan and recommended the state work out its own program or try to develop one in cooperation with New Jersey.

But Charles R. Erdman Jr., Incode vice chairman and New Jersey commissioner of conservation and development, said his state "would be more likely to go along with New York on a program, since Pennsylvania apparently is not ready to move."

ing" to move to the new quarters it is building on York St. at Sixth St. by June. No successor has been announced for the storeroom the Autoparts will abandon when it moves.

A local finance company is contemplating moving to the store room to be vacated by the employment service in the Plank building, but until lease agreements are worked out, no final announcement can be made.

Pitzer's Clothing store is scheduled to move from Lincoln Square to Chambersburg St., upon completion of work being carried out in the Pitzer Apartment building there.

New Business On Square

The present Pitzer location in the Raymond Building will be occupied by Jay R. Schmitt, who has been in the interior decorating business here for eight years, operating from a shop at the rear of his home on E. Middle St. He will open a showroom and conduct his upholstery and drapery business in the Lincoln Square location beginning in April.

Another change, although not a move, now underway is the remodeling of the Plaza Restaurant and Sweetland, both of which are closed at present while the major renovation is taking place.

Other moves would follow the sale of the Mitchell's restaurant, which has been offered for sale. Mrs. Violet Hill, owner of the establishment, said she has had "nibbles" from several prospective purchasers but none has reached the agreement stage as yet.

PUC PLANS NEW PENNSY HEARING

YORK, Pa. (AP)—The Public Utility Commission will hold another public hearing here to listen to York complaints against the Pennsylvania Railroad's plan to replace trains between Lancaster and here with buses.

So many witnesses were on hand yesterday to testify that the switch would be "unsafe and inconvenient" that a new meeting was agreed upon. No date was set. A previous hearing was held at Lancaster.

Herbert R. Cohen, of York, counsel for the group of protesting citizens, charged that the PRR is "anxious to get industrial sites, alert to get freight revenue but doesn't care a darn about passenger service."

The railroad at present runs a combination gas-electric locomotive and coach between York and Lancaster.

Alabama Girl New Pie-Baking Champ

CHICAGO, Feb. 21 (AP)—A pert, brown-eyed miss from Alabama did a deft change of pace Friday to win the 21st annual National Cherry Pie Baking Contest.

Sixteen-year-old Maxine Walker, a high school senior from Huntsville, came to Chicago prepared to bake her championship pie in a nine-inch pan.

She found the official pie pans had an eight-inch diameter. She tailored her recipe accordingly. And she changed her mind at the last moment about making a solid crust. She wove a lattice crust, instead.
